Committee Votes Slash in Council to 18 Members

PEOPLE TO DECIDE PLAN, IF APPROVED BY BOROUGH BODY

Assembly Will Be Asked

Event Voters Ratify
Move in Dec. 3 Election.

ALDERMANIC BOARD OF FIVE SUGGESTED

White Measure Amended To Include Group for
Check on Expenditures
Authorized by Council.

A proposed drastic reduction in the number of council members of the borough of Atlanta will be before voters for ratification or rejection in the December 3 general election if recommendations of the charter revision committee are passed favorably Monday by council.

If the measure, sent to council Friday by the committee, is passed, council will be reduced to 13 members, one from each ward, and elected by voters of the ward each represents; the aldermanic board will be cut from 33, as at present constituted, to five, one from each of five districts, and the aldermen will be selected by the vote of the entire electorate of the borough.

In the event the paper is approved in the December 3 referendum, the borough assembly will be asked to revise the borough charter, slashing the number of representatives from 33, as at present, to 13. The change would become effective January 1, 1932, under the plan.

Councilman John A. White, of the fourth ward, is author of the proposal, which was before the committee Friday afternoon and which was the basis on which the proposed cut in council was predicated.

His measure provided for a council of 13 members, elected from each of the 13 wards, without an aldermanic board. Members of the committee, which is headed by Councilman Ellis B. Barrett, of the 13th ward, held that an aldermanic board check on expenditures is desirable and amended the White proposal so that it would provide the aldermanic board of five members.

Details of the districts have not been worked out, but could be finished within a short time, it was stated.

Predictions Friday were that the measure will get the approval of council and that the voters of Atlanta will have opportunity to express their preference concerning the change in the December 3. The original White measure provided for such a referendum.

Mr. White appeared before the committee Friday afternoon to support his paper, as did Mrs. Harry Greene, president of the Atlanta League of Women Voters, and Mrs. R. L. Turman, a leading member of the league. They all declared that the present council is too top-heavy for effective and efficient government.

It is known that Mayor-Designate James L. Key approves a plan to reduce the number of council and that he would favor any reasonable and logical plan looking toward that end.

For many years it has been felt that general council action should be cut because of the large number included in that body.

Augusta Aviator Leaps to Safety

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Oct. 3.—(AP) Choosing the parachute route to safety, two young United States air corps officers today jumped from their crippled plane over Decatur, Ala., to become Maxwell field's first members of the mythical "Caterpillar Club." The officers are Lieutenant Curtis E. Smith, of Augusta, Ga., and Lieutenant Laurence A. Duncan, of Alacorte, Ala. Both are attached to the 22nd observation squadron stationed at Maxwell field.

The ship was losing altitude from 10,000 feet when the upper left aileron snapped. Smith, the pilot, reported that the ship at an altitude of about 2,500 feet and landed unhurt.

OIL FRAUD PROBE WILL BE PRESSED

Despite Kelley's Refusal
To Aid, U. S. Goes Ahead—Nye Believes It.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Ralph S. Kelley held a justice department investigation at arm's length today while he convinced the chairman of the senate public lands committee he was "quite thoroughly justified" in his charges of maladministration of Colorado oil shale lands.

The former chief of the Denver federal land office sent Assistant Attorney-General Seth W. Richardson a letter refusing to lay his charges before that official, saying he believed Richardson had prejudged his case. Nevertheless, the justice department determined to go ahead with the investigation.

The refusal of Kelley to go before Richardson brought a statement late in the day from Secretary Wilbur expressing belief that Kelley had fallen "into designing hands of those who could use him to their advantage" and was permitting himself to be exploited. The secretary several days ago refused to accept Kelley's resignation and suspended him pending an investigation.

Senator Nye, chairman of the lands committee, after an hour's conference with the former Denver official, said he believed Kelley was "quite thoroughly justified" in his charges. He added he was equally convinced, however, that Secretary Wilbur was not responsible for the alleged errors.

"Kelley's charges do not go to the door of Secretary Wilbur," Nye said. "There is a door to which his objections lead, however, and this door should be opened."

"I can't help but be impressed with the spirit moving Kelley at this stage. I think he is entitled to a thorough hearing."

The senator added that if the department of justice did not proceed with a thorough inquiry of the case he himself would introduce a resolution in the senate calling for an investigation.

In his letter to Richardson Kelley said he had declined to lay the facts and details of his charges before him because he believed "the public interests require an investigation of these charges by an impartial body."

"Is it not true, Kelley asked, 'that the opinions you have been reported as expressing are inspired by higher officials of the interior department?'"

"It is my view that members of the president's cabinet are much too closely bound together to permit impartial investigation of the case," he said. "I have had arrangements whereby 'the principal facts supporting the allegations' he had made would be placed before the public. He referred to a series of articles he will write for a New York newspaper beginning Monday."

Richardson expressed surprise that Kelley had thought his case prejudged. He recalled that on announcing his investigation he had promised to get all the facts and "let the ball roll," he said. "I have given myself and you, too, if he had given us a statement."

Wilbur's Statement.
The statement given out by the department of justice said in part: "From the time this inquiry was undertaken by the department of justice under the receipt of Kelley's letter today, the assistant attorney-general in charge has made every effort by one means or another to get into communication with Kelley and obtain from him a specific statement, but without success."

"We regret that Kelley has declined to give department of justice officials any statement or reference to specific facts which would expedite the inquiry and aid us in ascertaining the facts. Notwithstanding his attitude, the assistant attorney-general in charge proceeded with his inquiry to ascertain the situation in the interior department respecting the administration of this part of the public domain."

Secretary Wilbur said Kelley "must base his charges on my official acts, more than three-fourths of which were taken upon his recommendation."

"Of the 62 claims that have gone to patent since March 4, 1929, when this administration came into office, 50 had come from the Denver office and had been passed on by Kelley himself," he said. These 62 patents, plus two approved but not yet issued, he said, covered 38,000 acres.

2:30—Rides open on midway.

Preceded by a big parade, headed by Governor Hardman and Mayor Ragsdale, through downtown Atlanta and out to Lakewood park, the sixteenth annual Southeastern Fair will be officially opened at 11:30 o'clock this morning when the governor will insert a gold key into a lock which will swing open the gates for the 300,000 persons who are expected to view the exposition between now and its close next week.

Persons desiring admittance will be permitted to enter any time after 8 o'clock this morning, but the official opening will not take place until the completion of the parade at 11:30 o'clock.

The parade, which will be one of the chief features of the opening day, will form at Peachtree and Baker streets at 10:30 o'clock and move down Peachtree and Whitehall streets and out South Pryor to the exposition grounds.

Officers of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsoring the attendance at the fair this year, have completed special plans for Aviation and Sports Day next Tuesday and Wednesday. They have issued thousands of complimentary tickets, each of which, accompanied by one paid admission, will admit a person to the fair grounds.

With the exception of a few minor details and adjustments to be made in the various exhibits, everything is in readiness for the grand opening to the state department in 1900 as Oscar Mills, secretary and general manager, spent the greater part of Friday afternoon inspecting the grounds and exhibits and expressed a unanimous opinion that the exposition was in excellent condition.

J. REUBEN CLARK SUCCEEDS MORROW

Former Undersecretary of State Named Ambassador to Mexico.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(UN)—President Hoover today appointed J. Reuben Clark, of Salt Lake City, Utah, close friend of Dwight W. Morrow and former under-secretary of state, to fill the important post of ambassador to Mexico.

The 57-year-old lawyer will return to the post where he served for more than 15 months in an unofficial capacity as the advisor and right-hand man of Morrow, who relinquished the ambassadorship to seek election to the senate from New Jersey.

The new ambassador, in filling a diplomatic post which the administration regards as one of the most important in the foreign service, may draw on a quarter century of intermittent experience in diplomacy. Coming to the state department in 1900 as solicitor after five years of teaching and practicing law, Clark served in that office until 1913.

During the next four years Clark represented the United States on various commissions, including that appointment to prepare for the third Hague conference. When the United States entered the World War in 1917, Clark left the diplomatic field to serve in the office of the judge advocate general.

In 1921 he was appointed by former Secretary of State Woodrow Wilson as expert advisor to the American delegation at the Washington arms limitation conference.

After the conference Clark was not actively associated with public affairs until 1928, when former President Coolidge chose him as under-secretary of state. He remained in that post a year.

Meanwhile, Ambassador Morrow, busily engaged in straightening the international tangle over oil and public lands which resulted from the Mexican nationalization program, called on Clark to help him. While in Mexico City Clark was not on the government payroll and it is generally understood that Morrow personally paid his assistant.

PEACE OFFICER SLAYER OF NEGRO, GUARDSMEN SAY

Charges, Which Are Backed by Statement From Commanding Officer,
Are Denied by Sheriff.

Charges that George Grant, negro, was killed by a Georgia peace officer instead of a mob, as reported after the negro had been locked in the McIntosh county jail on a charge of having attempted to murder Deputy Sheriff Collins, of that county, are being investigated by Adjutant General Homer C. Parker.

The Macon Telegraph, in an Associated Press dispatch last night stated it had learned from an authoritative source that national guard officers, presumably of the 118th field artillery, one unit of which was called out after the negro had fired on the deputy sheriff September 8, would contend Grant was killed by a peace officer after he had been entrusted with the prisoner's care and while the soldiers were pecking a second suspect.

Jail Yard Guarded.
In a statement from Savannah, Colonel W. R. Neal, who commanded the unit of the 118th field artillery, said he placed a guard at the jail yard—one of the two ways of entering the jail. "The person or persons who killed the negro," Colonel Neal said, "could have entered only through the sheriff's house."

Colonel Neal's statement was flatly contradicted by Sheriff Poppell in a telephone message to the Associated Press from the Darien jail. "I don't know who killed the negro and I don't care. If you want to find out, ask Savannah national guard officers who were here. I don't think there was a single soldier on guard at the time Grant was killed."

General Parker, reached by telephone early this morning at his Campbell road home, declined to discuss the case in any particular or to deny or confirm the statement that he is investigating the circumstances surrounding the negro's death. "I have nothing to say at this time," he declared, "and I can't say definitely when I will have a statement to make."

Colonel Neal, in a telephone conversation with "the Constitution," said he knew nothing of an investigation by the Georgia state police that he did not know who killed the negro and added the following statement: "These are the facts and anyone can draw his own conclusions: When the negro was captured, national guardsmen placed him in a cell, in the care of the sheriff."

"There were two ways of entering the jail—a door leading from the sheriff's house, and the other leading into the jail from the jail yard. "I had a guard posted at the jail yard gate. The person or persons who killed the negro could have entered only through the sheriff's house. At the time the sheriff was ill. There was no mob."

Denial by Sheriff.
Sheriff Poppell, from his home in Darien, stoutly denied that any guard had been placed at the jail entrance and that he was investigating the case as reported by the Associated Press. He was charged by other national guard officers—but admitted that anybody could have gotten into the jail after Grant had been locked in.

"I don't know who did it," he said, "and I don't care. If you want to know, ask the Savannah national guard officers who were down here. I only have one deputy," the sheriff said, "and he was already wounded. After the negro had been put in the jail, the peace officers and the soldiers all left to hunt for the other negro in the woods."

"I don't think there was one single soldier on guard at the time Grant was killed."

"I don't know who killed him. I was summoned on the coroner's jury and we asked around but nobody seemed to know who did it."

"Was there any mob there?" he was asked.

"No, there wasn't any mob—there was the usual crowd of people and about 12 or 13 sheriffs here from other counties. I never said a mob killed the negro."

Report of Collins' Death.
"A few minutes after I locked Grant in his cell and went into that part of the jail building where I live my two daughters came running to me crying. They said that Deputy Sheriff Collins, who was shot earlier in the morning, had just died. I was getting a drink of water at the time, and the news of Collins' death shocked me so I choked on the drink of water, and was almost overcome. It developed later that the report about Collins was not true; he did not die."

"I don't know who killed Grant. There had been a crowd around the jail when the negro was locked up, but everybody was cleared out after the negro was put in his cell."

"Whoever killed the negro must have slipped into the jail, but who it was, I don't know."

Italian Princess Will Marry Boris

KING BORIS AND PRINCESS GIOVANNA.

ROME, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A new royal romance in Europe tonight brought about the betrothal of Princess Giovanna, of Italy, pretty and dark-eyed daughter of King Victor Emmanuel, and King Boris, of Bulgaria, often described as "Bulgaria's bachelor king."

Official announcement of the engagement was made late this evening by their majesties, King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena. It was conveyed in a brief document that will be published tomorrow.

The royal consent means that all problems of religion and state affairs have been settled. Princess Giovanna is a Roman Catholic and King Boris is an orthodox Greek Catholic. The Vatican City circles of high authority state that King Boris agreed that despite provisions to the contrary in the Bulgarian constitution, Princess Giovanna should remain a Catholic and their children should be educated as Catholics.

This difference in religion is understood to have held up the match for more than a year, during which the Vatican held out against the pleas of both Italy and Bulgaria for a compromise more favorable to Boris' desires.

The bachelor king visited Italy in September but did not come to Rome. It is recalled that he was received by Pope Pius when he attended the wedding last January of Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose of Belgium.

This visit is now thought to have paved the way for a settlement of the religious differences.

For some years the European excursions of Bulgaria's king have been regarded as having matrimony for their ultimate object. Many eligible royal and princely names have been connected with his.

Announcement of the engagement today follows within less than a year of the marriage of Crown Prince Humbert and Princess Marie Jose of Belgium.

The present period of depression is in reality a blessing in disguise and will result in an era of a greater and more solid prosperity, in the opinion of John Benson, of New York, permanent president of the American Association of Advertising Agencies, who arrived in Atlanta Friday afternoon after a tour which included most of the United States.

Mr. Benson, who is the chief executive of an organization which handles 70 per cent of all national advertising in the United States, came to Atlanta to be guest of honor of the Atlanta council of his organization at a banquet attended by local publishers and advertising executives.

The dinner, held at the Capital City Club, resolved itself into a round-table discussion of advertising policies and other kindred interests.

"This so-called cycle of depression," the advertising executive declared, "will do a lot to place things on a sound, economic basis. It will, for instance, result in the building of a future market that should have the effect of bringing about a general prosperous condition in every section of the United States. People now are being more cautious and are placing their money in the savings banks or investing it in sound business propositions."

Teaching Value of Dollar.
"This is teaching them the value of the dollar. It is true that the people as a whole are refraining from buying necessities, but the time will come when they will no longer be able to do without those things, and in the meantime they have the money with which to make the purchases that are bound to come."

The advertising appropriation of leading manufacturers and other business heads, Mr. Benson said, will be larger in 1931 than for the present year, and although he was careful not to commit himself in the matter of an early looked-for return of normalcy, he expressed the opinion that the bottom in the economic slump had been reached and that the so-called cycle

YELLOW JACKETS READY FOR OPENER WITH GAMECOCKS

Untried Tech Eleven and Veteran 'South Carolina
Team Will Launch Conference Season Today.

BY ED DANFORTH.
Football parades North avenue today for the first time this year.

Georgia Tech's team of mystery meets a squad of tested Gamecocks from South Carolina this afternoon at 3 o'clock on the springy turf of Grant field.

Down there in the brilliant sunshine of early fall (unless it rains), the Yellow Jackets will begin the long trail that may lead up out of the shadows of a year of defeats that was 1929 or may lead anywhere else.

North avenue plays Peachtree street for the day. The football parade always is the first fall fashion festival. Along the uneven sidewalks past the fraternity houses, what the well-dressed young man and the chic young lady will wear this fall will be unveiled. The chrysanthemum becomes the civic flower, tied with Gold and White or with Garnet and Black, according to sentiment.

Georgia Tech indeed has a team that has its adherents puzzled as to probable strength. Tech has a heavy, powerful rush line of experienced players and a backfield of uncertain power and possibly limited versatility.

The lineup developed through four weeks of practice was tested this evening when Sid Williams, the best punter on the squad, was injured and benched for two weeks. Then Harold Olts, a substitute and second-best punter, was ruled ineligible by the Tech athletic board Thursday morning.

The forced Coach Alexander to rearrange his backfield entirely. Captain Earl Dunlap was shifted to halfback and Sam Colvin was put at quarterback. Hart, a little sophomore, will be entrusted with the other halfback position, and Bob Strickland will get the call at fullback. This new arrangement has been practiced as a unit but two days.

South Carolina, already having defeated Erskine, 19 to 0, and Duke University, 22 to 0, has after the game organized eleven to oppose Tech. Coach Billy Laval, a wily little man with a long record of successful campaigns, has found in the year's team just the type of players to execute his intricate whirly and shifts. The Gamecocks work the hidden ball system overtime in their tactics, and often the game is as hard on the spectators as on the opposing eleven. Try to follow the ball.

South Carolina alumni, of whom there are many in Atlanta, will attend the game in a body to cheer for the Gamecocks. The old grads have played a dinner tonight, and after the game for the players and coaches at the Atlanta Athletic Club. The Carolinians are not unduly optimistic in hoping that the banquet can be a victory dinner.

Much interest centers in the first appearance on Grant field of "Bru" Boinneau and "Happy" Edens, the Gamecock backfield flashes. These lads are two of the fastest, shiftest backs in the conference in estimation of scouts. They ran wild in the early game last year, Edens was a substitute for Boinneau, but this year, as a special concession to Georgia Tech, Coach Laval will let them both in the game at once. Boinneau and Edens are the spearheads of the famous triple and double pass attack that the Laval eleven launches, and their numbers will be the first to be memorized by fans.

PRISONER SAYS HE DROVE CAR

Took Two Racketeers to Scene Where Actual
Killer Was Met—Jury
Attacks Police Force.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—A confession that he had taken part in the assassination of Alfred (Jake) Lingle, Tribune reporter, was made tonight by Frank Bell, a prisoner who has been held in the county jail since late in June in connection with several robberies and another murder that police believe was a sequel to the newspaperman's death.

The other slaying was that of Christ Patras, proprietor of a cafe in the northside neighborhood where numerous Moran gangsters lived and did business. Authorities have persistently held the Moran gang guilty of the Lingle slaying.

Bell implicated Joe Traum, northern Indiana gang leader who is now in Leavenworth prison, and Richard M. Sullivan, as the two men whom he drove to Michigan avenue and Randolph street just before Lingle was shot down in a crowded pedestrian tunnel leading to an Illinois Central suburban station.

"The men met a 'blonde young man' who fired the fatal shot, Bell said. He also said Sullivan was the killer of Patras, whom he described as acting as agent for Jack Zuta in offering $10,000 for Lingle's death.

Bell's story was told to the coroner's jury investigating the Lingle case. The jury was suddenly called back into session tonight by Governor Herman Bundera on the basis of Bell's confession.

Bell said he had been released from Leavenworth prison April 8, had come here and searched futilely for a job, and then had seen various persons about getting into the "rally racket." In the course of this activity, he said, he became acquainted with Traum and Sullivan and was employed by them as a chauffeur on June 9, the day he drove them to the assassination scene.

Belief that there is a "well established, three-cornered alliance between the Chicago police department, the corrupt politicians and the criminal elements" was expressed by the grand jury as it concluded its investigation into the affairs of racketeers and gangsters tonight.

In a letter to Chief Justice John P. McCarty, the grand jurors blamed the "three-cornered alliance" for the murder of three businessmen and eleven officials of labor unions in three years. They also declared that Continued on Page 8, Column 5.

Courts Block Move To Fire Irigoyen

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Failure today met efforts to obtain through the courts freedom for ex-

President Hipolito Irigoyen, held prisoner aboard the cruiser Buenos Aires. Federal Judge Jantus ruled out a habeas corpus plea. The former president maintained he had been illegally arrested by the provisional government that overthrew his government last month.

DETROIT PHYSICIAN OUTWITS KIDNAPERS

Abducted Doctor Attracts Attention by Prescription Paper.

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Dr. Frank L. McPhail, a Highland Park physician, was kidnaped last night and held captive until this morning in a vacant house from which he was released by police after he attracted attention by throwing prescription papers out of a window.

A man said to have been left to guard the physician was arrested by police. He gave his name as Frank Sabino. Police reported that when Dr. McPhail's father, Dr. Malcolm McPhail, went to arrange for payment of ransom at 6 a.m. today, he was abducted, but was released later after being driven to the neighborhood in which the son had been held.

The kidnapping recalled the numerous abductions for ransom in Detroit and its suburbs during recent years. It was the first crime of this nature reported for nearly a year, however.

Dr. McPhail was abducted while a special grand jury was hearing the testimony of some of the leaders in the old kidnaping rings, who turned state's evidence after being convicted.

The young McPhail said he was forced into an automobile by three men after answering a decoy professional call and was taken to the house, which is in the edge of the city, where he was forced to write a note asking for $4,000 ransom. Two of the men went out with the note, leaving the other as a guard.

Dr. McPhail did not know until he was rescued that his guard was unarmed, having given his pistol to one of his companions.

After a sleepless night Dr. McPhail said he attracted attention of children outside while his guard's back was turned. Parents of the children notified police.

The elder McPhail, according to police, was forced into a car when he met the two kidnapers by appointment, was driven to the neighborhood of the house where his son was held and was released when the rescue was discovered.

MOVE LAUNCHED TO CUT RAILROAD VALUATIONS

Norris Conference Attorney Appears Before I. C. C.

BY HERBERT LITTLE.
United News Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(UN)—An attack designed to trim down the increased valuations which railroads are expected to claim under the famous O'Fallon supreme court decision was launched before the Interstate Commerce commission today, in a new test case on excess earnings recapture based on valuation.

Donald R. Richberg, labor attorney who is representing the National Railroad Valuation conference of which Senator George W. Norris is chairman, advanced the contention in the hearing of the protest by the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad.

Reproduction cost—calculated at the high post-war prices of commodities—less depreciation, Richberg said, is not the dominant element, nor even the controlling element, in the fixing value for recapture purposes. This "value" fixed by the commission is also used for rate-making, so the ultimate decision may have far-reaching effect on railroad rates all over the country.

The supreme court in the O'Fallon case ruled by a divided court that the commission erred in failing to give weight to this "reproduction new" factor, and in fixing a figure based on other factors, including original cost. The court did not say then what weight was to be given to this factor contended for by the railroads.

Richberg challenged the railroad's claims that two previous supreme court rulings in the Southwestern Bell and Indianapolis Water cases, determined that large or controlling weight is to be given to this controversial factor.

The importance of the case is shown by a difference of around $10,000,000 between the aggregate valuation of American railroads as calculated by the commission, and as claimed by the railroads themselves. If such a difference were made effective, it would justify rate increases aggregating $1,000,000,000—increases which the railroads have disclaimed any intention of asking now. The recapture of excess earnings on the same valuation is based on the 1920 transportation act provision which allows the government to take one-half of profits in excess of 6 per cent annually. There are more than 100 of these excess profits cases now before the commission, and Richberg selected this one as likely for a test case, which is almost certain to be carried before the supreme court.

A final supreme court ruling on the question "how much weight is to be given to reproduction?" was anticipated by Richberg's argument, which asserted that out of the eight court justices, qualified to sit in valuation cases, "the written opinions of four deny vigorously the validity of the carrier arguments." Another, Owen J. Roberts, has never participated in a valuation case in this court. He added that the railroads in this case are demanding creation of a property right, "not justified in the social sciences, for which there can be no sanction unless one can be obtained in the economic opinions of the justices of the supreme court."

There is no reason, he told the commission, to believe the court will ever sanction the railroad claims. "Such action could only result from unground economic opinions conscientiously held by a majority of the court."

Michigan Dry Leader Concedes Wet Victory

PORT HURON, Mich., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Representative Louis C. Cramton, house dry leader, today conceded his defeat by Jesse P. Wolcott, Port Huron attorney, in the primary race for the republican nomination for representative from the seventh congressional district.

The final margin between the two candidates, on the basis of a recount, was 25 votes. On the original returns Wolcott's lead was 102 votes. Wolcott advocated a referendum on the prohibition question during his campaign and expressed dissatisfaction with the dry laws.

New York Dry Leader Cheered by Ministers

AUBURN, N. Y., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Two hundred and fifty ministers here for sessions of the Central New York Methodist conference, today gave their feet for a demonstration lasting nearly 15 minutes during an address of Dr. Robert P. Carroll, dry candidate for governor on an independent ticket. Dr. Carroll, Syracuse University professor, denounced both the "old parties" in the state for their wet declarations.

"As a leader of the dry forces—or a victim—we stand for rigid enforcement of the eighteenth amendment," he said. "Liquor is the greatest evil in force today." He asserted that crime is directly linked with liquor and that America is leading the world in crime.

"The old parties are a disgrace to stop the retreat." "If Teddy Roosevelt were alive today, he would order the land and air forces to come in and clean up the situation. We have got to be loyal and stop the retreat."

Pot-Pourri

BY JESSIE MARIE DEBOTH

With all the excellent salad dressings on the market, it seems surprising to have requests for home recipes, but requests come in—and what is this department for, if not to be of service to our readers? So we are giving a formula that we hope you will like, especially as it keeps well and does not call for whipped cream, a delightful but rather expensive addition.

Melt four tablespoons of butter or substitute, add three tablespoons of flour and when smooth and frothy, pour in a cup of rich milk. Have in readiness a teaspoon each of salt, sugar and mustard with a dash of cayenne, well blended with a scant half cup of vinegar and pour this into the sauce when it is thickened. Bring to the boiling point and pour rapidly into three well-beaten eggs (two will do if they are large) beating, meanwhile, with a wire whisk or perforated spoon until well mixed. Strain into a wide-mouthed container and keep in a cool place. For variety the seasonings may include a little Worcester or other table sauce and mild German mustard instead of the hot, dry products.

This dressing is good for potato salad, almost any green vegetable combination or coleslaw. It blends with the popular Waldorf salad of crisp apple, celery and nuts, or with celery and green pepper on sliced pineapple. You may like green beans with this dressing and some minced onion, but served as a hot vegetable, or a blend of white sauce and the dressing as a substitute for rich Hollandaise.

It is fine for fish with the addition of grated cucumber over Brussels sprouts or cauliflower with a dash of onion juice, and agreeable on small cooked tomatoes (either baked or whole) with some minced parsley and capers. Use it cold over stuffed eggs in molds of tomato jelly for an unusual salad. Remember that it is the pulp of the tomato that gives the color, not the plain juice, so use a strainer that is not too fine, and add a little lemon juice or vinegar to enhance the flavor. If tomatoes are a bit insipid, a dissolved bouillon cube will improve them.

We enjoyed a delicious service of green beans recently in which we detected a bit of nutmeg. The beans were enriched with a thin cheese sauce enlivened with meat stock and served piping hot in small casseroles (en cassiolette) topped with crisp crumbs. It sounds elaborate, but really is not much bother and would be fine for a company dinner, as they might be prepared in advance and baked at the last minute to insure hot service.

At the same dinner where these beans are relished, we had some marvelous fish. Trout, halibut or white fish might be used, out into individual portions seasoned and buttered liberally and blanketed with crumbs. Then these were baked quickly, placed on the hot plates, and a scroll of bear-naise sauce was piped over the top. If put directly on the fish, this would soften and spread, but the crumbs are poor conductors of heat and hold the spirals in shape. A plain cornucopia of stiff paper answers for the piping as well as a pastry bag and there is no greasy affair to wash after a little practice makes it an easy task.

A luscious dessert served at a gorgeous luncheon consisted partly of gingerbread, but such gingerbread! It was moist, tender and light and baked in a large ring mold. It might be done in deep muffin pans or individual rings. The rich topping was a smooth, hot chocolate sauce and the center was a feathery fluff of whipped cream, sprinkled with sifted powdered sugar and cinnamon. With a pot of hot coffee this would be a meal in itself and is only suitable after a very light luncheon, but it is certainly grand eating!

We tried a simpler variation, dredging the fresh gingerbread with fine sugar and filling it in with smooth apple sauce made light with whipped cream. A stiff meringue in place of the cream would be less rich and make a fine fluffy center.

Ripe tomatoes are so plentiful that we should use them freely now for you know how the price leaps when cold-weather comes. In soups, salads and sauces they are always welcome. If a bit juicy for salad, try squeezing them lightly to extract the extra liquid, after peeling and cutting out the stem end. Then slice down lengthwise and cut into quarters and top with a little cottage cheese and minced green pepper.

Tomatoes form the basis of a sauce suitable for veal or pork, spaghetti or croquette. Brown lightly two cloves of garlic and a small onion (minced together) in two tablespoons of oil or butter. Add a tablespoon of chili powder, half a teaspoon each of salt and crushed bay leaves or powdered thyme. Pour in a cup and one-half each of cut tomatoes and meat stock, substituting a bouillon cube in hot water for the latter, if necessary. Let this simmer for at least half an hour, longer is better, then strain, add the hot meat or other solid food. Some tastes like the addition of a clove of two, or celery or parsley in the making of the sauce. When strained it may be varied with shreds of scalded green pepper or strips of olives, green or ripe.

Spinach or broccoli is served in for-sign fashion with the sauce as first given, omitting the tomato. It may have a little flour cooked with the oil to make up for the tomato pulp. Such a savory mixture gives interesting flavor to simple greens, which, however desirable in our diet, become tiresome in plain service. It isn't high seasoning but varied ones that make common foods delectable.

Stuffed Salmon.
Place three slices salt pork on bottom of flat baking pan, arrange half of a can of salmon on it, shaped like a stake. Cover with dressing, and then another layer of salmon. Put three more slices of pork on top and bake 3-4 of an hour. How to make dressing: One cup bread crumbs, 1-2 cup cracker crumbs, 1 small onion, sliced, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-4 cup melted butter, 1 beaten egg, pinch of sage. Lightly brown the onion in the butter, add hot water, and pour this over the bread and cracker crumbs. Season, and stir in the egg. This will serve six persons.

GROUPS LINK TO AID CO-OPERATIVE SELLING

U. S. Vocational Group, Farm Board Join Hands.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The federal farm board has joined hands with the federal board for vocational education in a program to advance co-operative marketing by teaching its theory and application to farmers of the present and future, in special classes at 4,000 centers in the United States.

Dr. C. H. Lane, director of vocational agriculture for the education board, announced today that the farm board had endorsed a plan to utilize existing machinery instead of creating a new organization to carry out the agricultural marketing act provision for extending co-operative marketing by education.

Under the new program farmers will be taught in evening classes, while boys and girls will be offered special courses in regular and special part-time high school courses. Lane said the vocational education board has established centers in high schools through which approximately 200,000 farm boys and girls—already enrolled in vocational agriculture studies—could be reached. He estimated at least 100 farmers could be offered special courses at each of the 4,000 established centers.

Eugenic Marriage Regulations Urged

Need for the regulation of marriage in Georgia by placing it on a eugenics basis was outlined by Dr. G. C. Rhodes, professor of biology at Emory University, who asserted in an address to the Atlanta Parent-Teacher Council that the state is suffering from lack of supervision in that respect.

Dr. Rhodes declared future generations of Georgia should be protected by the enactment of laws insuring posterity a chance in life. The professor explained that those working on the problem had set as a goal the installation of a plan whereby all persons would be registered every ten years in order that their social difficulties might be studied and a survey made to discover abnormal and subnormal traits.

Fair, Aiken Capture Is Believed Nearer

Efforts to locate and arrest Fred Fair and Sam Aiken, condemned murderers, who escaped from Fulton tower several weeks ago, are being carried forward with strong possibility of early success, according to Sheriff James I. Lowry. Descriptions of the missing slayers have been broadcast to a large number of cities and officers are working on several promising clues, Lowry said. Fair was sentenced to die for the murder of Paul Jackson, 184 Hilliard street, and stealing clothes valued at $175.

Two Are Sentenced On Burglary Charges

Couldn't be finer if only the "400" could buy it

Just supposing White Lily were made to order for a few wealthy folks—though they should search the world over—spare no expense to learn the best way to mill flour—they could make no finer flour than White Lily. White Lily is milled as only one mill knows how milled from the best grade winter wheat. Special machinery separates the delicate portion of each wheat kernel. It is sifted through hand-woven Tyrolean silk. Every hour during the milling it is tested in the mill's own laboratory-kitchen. That is why every pound of it is so pure, white and fluffy. Fortunately every family can afford White Lily. Not only experienced cooks, but even beginners can depend on it for baking delicious cakes, a pan of savory biscuits, the tenderest pastries. ## Truck Growers Ask Respite In Produce Row Parking Tilt

Farmers Will Urge Council To Withhold Action Pending Selection of New Market Site.

Hope that city council Monday will allow truck growers a temporary respite from efforts to remove the produce men from Central avenue, until arrangements can be made for a permanent headquarters for the sales from trucks, was expressed Friday afternoon at a conference between a committee of farmers and Harry Brown, Fulton county agricultural agent.

Several proposed locations for the operations of the truck growers are under consideration and it is the belief of the committee that negotiations for the use of a new site can be completed within a few weeks.

Meanwhile, it is the intention of the truckmen to ask council that any action dispossessing them of their Central avenue stands be withheld until other arrangements can be made, in order to avoid working a hardship on the farmers whose only market at present is that on Central avenue between Hunter and Trinity.

$2,000,000 Business. Facts assembled Friday by the committee included the startling revelation that the truckmen assembling on Central avenue do an annual business of approximately $2,000,000. This is based on Friday's business of 102 trucks, which amounted to $4,800. Trucks congregate at the Central avenue market site from within a 100-mile radius of Atlanta, including a number from other states.

Most of the complaints against truckmen parking on Central avenue have concerned all-night parking and the proposal of the farmers to council will be to mark off spaces for the trucks and allow parking between the hours of 4 a. m. and 7 p. m., it was said.

The committee, under the chairmanship of C. A. Bagwell, will meet again next week to consider further steps toward acquisition of a new market place. Importance of the market to both consumers and growers was emphasized by members of the committee, who pointed out that unless the farmers are given co-operation by city, county and state authorities in the matter of finding markets, many of them will find themselves in dire need and will be forced back to the cities to look for work in already overcrowded fields, thus making unemployment conditions worse instead of better.

Situation for Farmers. Georgia farmers can grow as good produce as is available from other states, it was pointed out, but an opportunity to establish standard grades for a stable market, it was said at the conference with Mr. Brown. If forced out of the local market by lack of space for parking and selling their wares, the farmers will be confronted with a discouraging situation that will strike a terrible blow to agriculture in this state, it was said.

In a letter to J. L. McCord, president of the Produce Dealers of Atlanta, C. D. Knight, who has been interested in the marketing problem of the farmers for a number of years, Friday expressed surprise "to hear that you and your association on Produce Row were trying to drive the truck farmers of the state from Central avenue and vicinity of Produce Row because it was hurting your business."

Farmers Need Help. "Let's try to help our farmers to take advantage of good roads, automobiles, telephones and radios, so that they can make a good living, and it is up to us fellows in the city to make a market for his wares," Mr. Knight said. "You and other loyal Georgians know that we can raise a good lettuce in Georgia as they can in California. What inducement has the farmer of our section to try to produce this stuff and any other vegetables and fruits unless we first give him a market? You have done a wonderful lot of good in this city and are competent to do a lot more, but let's forget our personal interests at this time and try to get our heads together, not politically but as good citizens of the city and state, and get a proper solution of this matter, so that there will be an inducement for our farmers to produce something besides cotton which he cannot sell." Mr. Knight pointed out that the business has grown in four years from 25 or 30 trucks to 300 to 350 trucks.

Advertising Chief Praises Atlanta

Personnel Group Hears W. D. Hoffman

W. D. Hoffman, southeastern zone manager of the Otis Elevator Company and past president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker at the monthly dinner meeting of the Atlanta Personnel Association Friday night at the Daffodil Ten room. In his address, the title of which was "Training: Beginners to Be Junior Executives," Mr. Hoffman explained that his company made a special effort to find and place men in the jobs for which they were best fitted.

"Sending men out without sufficient authority to transact the business which is expected of them is a mistake made by many companies," he said. "Because of the necessity of changing men around to different territories I formerly was opposed to our men marrying young, but I have seen so many wives stick by their husbands with a will through all sorts of changes that I have been obliged to change my idea in this respect."

Mediation Try Fails, Strikers See Siege

DANVILLE, Va., Oct. 3.—(AP)—With the latest attempt to mediate Danville's textile strike a failure, the strikers, after issuing a sharp statement aimed at their former employers, tonight settled down to a siege which they believe will be long drawn-out. The refusal by H. R. Fitzgerald, president of the Dan River and Riverside cotton mills, whose 4,000 workers quit last Monday, of Governor John Garland Pollard's offer to appoint a committee of mediation, was termed "effrontery" by the management committee of the local union. The strikers accepted the governor's offer, made yesterday.

One thing that particularly strikes me is the beauty of Atlanta's lawns. I have never seen another city that can match Atlanta for its abundance of pretty front yards and lawns. A representative group of publishers, newspaper advertising officials and members of the Atlanta branch of the southern council of the association attended the dinner in honor of the distinguished visitor. Among those present at the Capital City banquet were W. R. Dallis, of the Johnson-Dallis Company, local advertising agency; Major John S. Cohen, publisher of the Journal; Russell Whitman, publisher of the Georgian; J. A. Brice, vice president of the Journal; Horace Tutwiler, advertising manager of The Constitution; A. B. Chivers, assistant general manager of Hearst newspapers; Roger Reynolds, of the Georgian; B. E. W. Att, vice president of the Johnson-Dallis Company; Joe Murphy, James Flaherty and E. V. Dunbar, the latter three members of the Atlanta branch of the southern council.

Mr. Benson will leave Atlanta Sunday afternoon for Washington and New York.

Mrs. Cutter Asks Aid In Finding Lost Mate

Mrs. Edith Cutter, who told police that she was accidentally separated from her husband, R. C. Cutter, 55, of Highland Park, Ill., Wednesday when she left his automobile to purchase a hat in a downtown department store Friday night issued an appeal for help in locating the man, expressing the fear that he had met with foul play.

Mrs. Cutter said she is staying at 270 Williams street, N. W., until she receives some word as to her missing husband's whereabouts, and requests any person having any information of him to notify her there. She said he had a large sum of money when he parked his car in front of the downtown store, and attributes his disappearance primarily to his confusion after being ordered by a policeman to "move on" out of the restricted parking area.

Although the woman insists that her home is at 210 Euclid avenue, Highland Park, Ill., telegraphic advices Friday night were to the effect that the Cutters were not known in that city.

SAVANT CLAIMS PROOF OF COLUMBUS THEORY

PARIS, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Professor Luis Ulloa, Peruvian scholar who recently created a stir at the Hamburg Americanist conference by insisting that Christopher Columbus was a Catalan and not a Genoese, told the Associated Press today that his theory was confirmed by recent discoveries in the archives of the French national library.

These demonstrated, the Peruvian asserted, that Columbus was a relative of Casanova-Coullon, who was a corsair in the service of King Louis XI and, although born in France, was of Catalan origin.

Professor Ulloa will go to Spain in a month for further study.

Three Persons Hurt In Motor Accidents

Three persons were injured Friday in automobile accidents reported to the police. Walking into the side of a moving auto near her home late Friday afternoon, Mary Jean Bonneson, 7, of 908 Pulliam street, suffered a fractured right shoulder, it was said at Grady hospital, where she was taken by H. L. Patrick, of 1 Bicknell drive, Kirkwood, driver of the machine.

Billy Sligh, of 337 Cooper street, received a broken arm shortly after noon when the bicycle he was riding collided at Marietta and Bartow streets with an auto operated by a man whose name police failed to obtain.

In a motorcycle-auto crash at South Boulevard and Berne street, Dan Morris, 17, of 1026 Boulevard drive, the cyclist, escaped with minor injury, officers reported.

400 Soldiers To Get Gifts From Atlanta

Christmas presents from home to nearly 40,000 American soldiers on duty in foreign countries will be provided by the American Red Cross this year, in accordance with its annual custom and Atlantans have been requested by the local chapter to furnish gifts for 400 soldiers, the quota assigned to Atlanta in the Christmas campaign.

Mrs. Bennett W. Farnham, chairman of production for the chapter, stated Friday that lists of desirable articles and bags to contain them are now ready for distribution and may be obtained at chapter headquarters, 280 Peachtree street. The first shipment will be made October 15 and Mrs. Farnham urged that all interested individuals and organizations respond promptly.

Gibbs Catsup

Some folks think catsup is just catsup, and the brand doesn't matter.

Such an idea is all wrong, because Gibbs Catsup is different. Smooth, rich and pleasantly spicy. The recipe has been bettered by years of constant experiment. The ingredients are purchased with scrupulous care, including the choicest of Maryland's tomatoes, picked at exactly the right moment, prepared by trained food experts.

Next time you have chops for lunch or dinner, liven them up with a dash of Gibbs Catsup. They take on a new and wonderfully pleasing taste. When you want catsup "say Gibbs".

On 54-Mile Hike to Waco Target Range, 22d Infantry Secretly Pitches Camp, Hidden From Aerial 'Attack'

Fort McPherson Outfit 'Hides Out' Near Austell, While Army Planes Seek Regiment.

Securing its camp in a densely wooded section of the Willis farm near Austell Friday afternoon, the 22d infantry, U. S. A., "hid out" from aerial observers and photographers who had been sent by plane from Maxwell field, Ala., in an effort to find the regiment. The Fort McPherson outfit is hiking overland from its station to the Waco target range, 54 miles west of Atlanta, where next week will be spent in field maneuvers.

The Willis farm is about 14 miles from Atlanta. Colonel Louis M. Nuttman, commanding officer of the regiment, ordered camp pitched in mid-afternoon after inspecting the camp site and declaring that in his belief the unit there would be "safe" from an aerial attack.

Lieutenant N. C. Coates and Sergeant F. M. Powers, stationed at Maxwell field, were under orders to scout the entire section by air and attempt to photograph the regiment's camp. Colonel Nuttman said he would not learn whether or not the regiment was successful until he had obtained the information from Lieutenant Coates' commanding officer at Maxwell field.

The 22d spent Friday night at Austell and will proceed about today to Douglassville, where it will remain in camp over Sunday. Chaplain Ensrud has prepared a novel religious and entertainment program for Sunday, the music to be furnished by the regimental band.

The target range will be reached Monday night, the regiment remaining there until the following Monday morning, when the three-day hike back to Atlanta will be started.

Safety Devices To Protect Ships On New Air Line

The two tri-motor Fokker cabin monoplane scheduled to leave Candler field October 15 on their maiden voyage from Atlanta to Los Angeles will be equipped with every safety device known to aviation, it was announced Friday by Lee Sanders, division manager of Gulf Coast Airways, Inc., subsidiary of Southern Air Transport, Inc., which will operate the giant liners from Georgia to the Pacific coast.

Fifteen radio sets have been shipped by the Western Electric Company, of New York, and will form part of the ship's equipment, according to Mr. Sanders. Ten of the sets will be ground stations located at strategic points along the route and the rest are two-way telephone sets to be installed in the planes for use of passengers and pilots. These will be independent of the regular wireless sets, over which code messages regarding flying conditions, etc., are sent, Mr. Sanders stated.

The new service will make it possible to reach Los Angeles in two days, including an overnight stop at Dallas, Texas. Later, when satisfactory light system has been strung along the route, it is planned to make non-stop flights.

Making 14 miles on its first day out the Twenty-second regiment of infantry from Fort McPherson late Friday afternoon secretly pitched camp on the Willis farm, near Austell, to hide from aerial observers. The regiment marched one-third of its journey to the Waco target range, where practice will be held next week. The upper photo was taken just after the men reached camp. Below, members of the regiment, and his staff are shown, viewing the movement of the troops. The commanding officer is seated on the left, while seated at the right is Lieutenant Colonel D. M. Cheston, executive officer. Standing, left to right, are Captain E. E. Aldridge, director of plans and training; Lieutenant A. J. Monger, regimental adjutant, and Chaplain J. O. Ensrud.

SEATTLE COMMUNIST ADMITS VIOLENT PLAN

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 3.—(AP)—James O'Hannahan, Seattle communist leader, today told a congressional committee investigating radicalism in the United States, communists would change the form of the American government by force if it could not be accomplished by ballot. The committee, headed by Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, subpoenaed O'Hannahan, who was an unwilling witness.

The communist leader was a candidate for the United States senate two years ago on the communist ticket and has been active in spreading propaganda in this district. The witness said he had a deep respect for the red flag, that he did not believe in the present form of the United States government and was seeking to overthrow it. He declared he did not believe in private ownership of anything.

O'Hannahan said the soviets wanted a three-hour day for workers of this country.

"The movement is growing so fast I cannot keep in touch with it," he said in answer to a query as to how many communists there are in the Pacific northwest.

"What would you do about using force to take over this government?" he was asked.

"Well, that depends," he replied. "If a few politicians got in the way we should shove them aside. We would prefer using the ballot rather than force and violence. But if the majority of the workers decide to make a change, we will do it without the ballot."

Two Groups Indorse Judgeship Candidates

Delegations supporting two candidates to fill the vacancy of judge of the Augusta city court, caused by the death of J. C. C. Black, several weeks ago, appeared before Governor Hardman Friday.

A delegation composed of M. C. B. Holley, F. H. Turner and Harry H. Bell urged Ben E. Pierce, Augusta lawyer, for the place, while another, composed of D. C. Fogarty, James M. Hulle, Judge Henry C. Haun and W. H. Fleming, urged William M. Howard, of Augusta, former congressman. Mr. Howard's candidacy also had the support of a group of Athens citizens, who explained their interest was due to the candidate's former residence near that city.

Governor Hardman said he would take the matter under advisement.

Death of B. L. Brown Declared Suicide

A verdict of suicide, committed while temporarily insane, was returned Friday morning by a coroner's jury investigating the death of B. L. Brown, 60-year-old carpenter, of 241 Laurel avenue, who was found shortly before noon Thursday hanging to a limb of a scrub oak in a cove of woods off Mims street, a short distance from his home. Services will be conducted at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Bethlehem Baptist church, near Fairburn, by the Rev. W. H. Faust and the Rev. Mr. Spinks. Interment will be in the churchyard, with J. Austin Dillon Company in charge.

Mr. Brown left home at about 1 o'clock Thursday morning, Mrs. Brown told the jury, ostensibly in search of work. The piece of hemp twine which was found looped about his neck was similar to twine he kept in his carpenter shop, Mrs. Brown stated.

JAPANESE MINISTER OF NAVY QUILTS POST

TOKYO, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Admiral Takarabe, minister of the navy, today tendered his resignation to Premier Hamaguchi, who appointed Baron Kiyokazu Abo his successor.

Baron Abo, an admiral and member of the supreme war council, was naval advisor to the Japanese delegation at the London naval conference. Admiral Takarabe was one of the delegates.

It was the London conference which led to Takarabe's resignation. Criticized bitterly by his cabinet colleagues on one hand and fellow naval officers on the other both during the conference and since his return to Japan, Takarabe wanted to resign previously. He retained his office until the treaty was ratified, however, in order to avoid embarrassment to the Hamaguchi cabinet.

Baron Abo is 51 years old. His rise from a lieutenant commander has been slow, but impressive. His last promotion was to the supreme war council in December, 1928. He served as vice minister of the navy from 1923 to 1925.

Admiral Takarabe was appointed minister of the navy in June, 1922. Previous to the London conference he was regarded one of the most popular of the Hamaguchi cabinet. He had been criticized for his stand that Japan's naval defenses were unnecessarily weakened by the terms of the treaty.

The treaty was finally signed and ratified yesterday by Emperor Hirohito.

Baron Abo was installed in office in the presence of Emperor Hirohito. He then turned to the difficult task of reconciling the navy's demand for a new program within the limits of the London treaty with the cabinet's pledge for a tax reduction.

Admiral Takarabe's resignation, which was officially attributed to poor health, caused little surprise. Its political effects are expected to be few. The emperor appointed him a member of the supreme war council.

Watkins To Assist In War Loss Action

Edgar Watkins, Sr., will leave Sunday for Washington, D. C., where he will participate in a hearing in the circuit court of appeals for the District of Columbia in a mandamus proceeding brought by the Chestnut Prites & Chemical Corporation, which is seeking to recover approximately $400,000 losses under the War Minerals act. Beginning October 2, Mr. Watkins will represent the American Wholesale Grocers' Association as intervener in an anti-trust suit involving the United States and the packing industry. It is estimated the trial will last from four to six weeks.

INCENDIARISM PROBED IN STEWART BLAZE

Pastor Charges Fire at His Home Was Work of Liquor Runners.

Officials of the fire department Friday launched an investigation into the cause of a fire which shortly after midnight Thursday damaged the 1620 Evans drive home of the Rev. Robert Stewart, pastor of the Sylvan Hills Methodist church, after the minister had charged the fire was the work of liquor runners he had been attacking from his pulpit.

The minister reported he believed the fire may have been an aftermath of a feud between himself and Haralson county bootleggers, who were accused of slaying his first wife while Stewart was pastor of a church at Drakestown about eight years ago. Sheriff G. B. Richards, of Haralson county, said Friday afternoon he recalled the slaying of Mrs. Stewart and that several alleged liquor dealers were accused of the murder, tried and acquitted. Sheriff Richards said the pastor left Drakestown shortly after the slaying and as far as he knew the enmity between Mr. Stewart and the alleged liquor runners no longer existed.

The fire Thursday night badly damaged the frame dwelling on Evans drive. Secretary Carlton, of the board of firemasters, said fire department reports of the blaze attributed it to flying sparks from an undetermined source, but that apparently there had been no cause to suspect incendiarism. In view of the pastor's charges, however, Secretary Carlton said the matter would be investigated fully.

Marble Plant Blaze Inquiry Is Launched

The state fire marshal's office Friday, at the request of B. F. Coggins, president of the wholesale units of the companies which sustained losses, began an investigation into the fire Wednesday which practically wiped out six Atlanta marble plants and caused a loss estimated at $300,000. Officials of the company furnished the fire marshal's office clues which they believed indicated the fire to have been of incendiary origin.

Three Are Indicted On Slaying Charges

Indictments in two murder cases were returned Friday by the Fulton county grand jury. Laura Norman and Lillie May Davis were charged with the slaying of Capus Bile, who was stabbed August 9. Ralph Lester was indicted for the killing of Henry Vesley, who was shot with a pistol September 25.

Old Gray Mule Caught at Still, To Go on Block

Numerous persons who have been puzzling over the whys and wherefores of a conventionally dressed man riding down the principal thoroughfares of Atlanta a few days ago on an old gray mule were furnished the answer Friday when Deputy Prohibition Administrator Horace P. Wright released his report of the monthly activities of prohibition agents.

The old gray mule had been caught red-handed in a Picken county drawing wood to a furnace which was engaged in the prohibited business of distilling corn liquor. The still was destroyed, the liquor was seized and so was the old gray mule. After ears of faithful service behind the plow, they said, she fell from grace and the agents fetched her to town and turned her over to the state courts for condemnation proceedings. For getting muddled up in Mr. Volstead's favorite thou-shalt-not, the old gray mule will go on the auction block.

Among other activities listed by agents for the month of September were the seizure of 67 stills and the confiscation of 1,419 gallons of spirits and 107,950 gallons of mash. They seized automobiles valued at $1,480 and seized and destroyed other property on which they placed a valuation of $24,978.70. With and without the co-operation of state officers, they made a total of 65 arrests during the month.

Emory 'Wheel' Makes First 1930 Appearance

The Emory "Wheel," student publication of Emory University, made its first appearance of the year Friday with an entirely new format, including the addition of an extra column. The new editor of the Wheel is Emmett Cartledge, of Columbus, a senior in the College of Arts and Sciences. Max Hall and Henry Bowden, of Atlanta, are managing editors, and Carlos Lynes, Jr., also of Atlanta, is the associate editor. The weekly is supervised by Raymond Nixon, assistant professor of journalism.

Rev. Thurman Plans Services at Liberty

Rev. Howard Thurman, of the Morehouse College for Negroes, will conduct services at the Liberty Baptist church, corner of Chamberlain and Jackson streets, at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, according to an announcement issued Friday. His subject will be "The Cross of Human Life."

French Airmen Will Leave Atlanta Tuesday Following Visit to Fair and Luncheon Fete.

Revision of the reception and entertainment program planned by Atlanta for Captain Dieudonne Coste and Lieutenant Maurice Bellonte, French trans-Atlantic trail blazers, was made Friday afternoon by the committee on arrangements, due to a change in the tour schedule of the famous fliers.

The meeting was held in the office of Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, general chairman, and provided for elimination of two important parts of the program—a luncheon planned for Tuesday at 1 o'clock by the Atlanta Aero Club, and a dinner Tuesday night at the Piedmont Driving Club by the Alliance Francaise. Instead of remaining in Atlanta until Wednesday morning as had been planned at first, the party now is slated to depart at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, according to advices from George Witten, tour manager.

Mayor Ragsdale and Charles Lordin, French consul, Friday sent a joint telegram requesting that if the party must leave Atlanta Tuesday, it defer the departure until 2 o'clock instead of 1 o'clock, as the advices from Mr. Witten indicated. This is to permit a luncheon, which it is hoped can be worked out.

Members of the reception committee will gather at the Ansley hotel at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon and proceed to Candler field to welcome the fliers and other members of the party, who will come in other planes at 4:30 o'clock, according to the revised plans.

Monday night, beginning at 7 o'clock, a dinner will be held at the Ansley hotel in their honor. Tuesday morning they will be guests of the Atlanta Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Aviation Day celebration at the Southeastern Fair, and will return in time to get lunch and depart according to the schedule which has been mapped out by Mr. Witten.

In addition to Coste and Bellonte, others who also will be in the party and who will be feted guests of the city during their stay here include Rene Kacover, backer of the trans-Atlantic venture; Captain Murray Hall, of the department of commerce, and Henri Veron, French mechanic. Mr. Witten also announced that Lieutenant Roland Hicks has been replaced as personal representative of Patrick J. Hurley, secretary of war, by J. K. McDuffie.

Negro Given Life

A life sentence was given Shep Clemmons, alias John H. Lee, 73-year-old negro, Friday by Judge E. D. Thomas, of Fulton superior court, when a consent verdict of guilty of murder was returned against the defendant. Clemmons was charged with slaying his wife, Annie Clemmons, with a rifle on September 14 at their home in the rear of Diamond street.

The forest service said today that with the peak of the normal fire peril passed in several regions, fire-fighting efforts are being directed toward the prevention of fires.

The average fire this year covered only 24.4 acres, as against 131 acres, a year ago.

"As many fires have broken out in the national forests this year up to September 11 as occurred during the whole of last year," the service said, "and the number of acres burned in September 11 burned over only 181,884 acres, as against 978,107 acres burned over by 7,449 fires in the 12 months of 1920.

THE PRIEST WE NEED—For such a high priest became us, who is holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners, and made higher than the heavens; who needs not daily, as those high priests, to offer up sacrifice, first for his own sins, and then for the people; for this he did once, when he offered up himself.—Heb. 7:26, 27.

THE FAIR OPENS TODAY.

The Southeastern fair opens its gates today at Lakewood Park and should draw the fullest attention and attendance of the people of Atlanta especially.

These annual expositions, covering the field of southern industries, both urban and rural, have become more comprehensive and important each added year. They supply valuable instruction to young and old and furnish a harvest time festival of recreation for thousands who have been kept busily working during the summer. They promote public interest in the occupations of the people who produce from soil or machine, and particularly of those who distribute from field and factory to the homes of the consumers.

The Southeastern fair, under its excellent management, has become a signal promotive enterprise of both Atlanta and the state. Its popularity and successful operation, however, is most dependent upon the dutiful and deserved patronage of the people of this city.

Every citizen should make it a part of his or her civic creed to spend at least one day, or a good part of it, at the fair. There they will find instruction enough to repay the time and fee, and get fresher ideas of the rare and rich resources of the state and the productive genius of its people. A studious trip around the exhibits at the Southeastern fair will prove a cure for any lingering pessimism who thinks Georgia is exhausted of power.

SIGHT AND DELINQUENCY.

Lewis H. Carris, managing director of the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness, in a recent address brought out some remarkable figures bearing on the effect of poor sight in producing delinquency in children.

Pointing out that by far the most important of the five senses is that of sight, Mr. Carris declared:

Sound development of the body requires ample and the right kind of food. Development of the mind takes place through an assimilation of ideas brought to it by the five senses. By far the most important of the five senses in mind development is that of sight.

The human eye is a wonderful picture machine taking hundreds of thousands of pictures of objects every day. These eye pictures are in turn interpreted by the brain, and if the eye pictures are blurred and out of focus the brain itself cannot properly secure accurate knowledge as an aid in the formation of its concepts.

Fortunately, a large majority of children have eyes well fitted to do the required work of our schools. It is important that the conditions under which they work and the requirements of the educational process itself shall be of such a nature as to conserve good sight rather than to involve factors which might of themselves tend to deteriorate sight.

For years medical authorities have warned parents of the retarding effect of physical troubles on the mental development of their children. It is easy to realize, therefore, the seriousness of the threat of warped mentality as the result of poor eyesight.

Recognizing the importance of every child being given as nearly as possible an equality of opportunity in the school room, and that defects in vision can be more easily detected in the schools than at home, school authorities have of recent years given special attention to the discovery of any possible eye fault among their pupils.

This vitally important work of the schools should receive the fullest co-operation of the parents. When a slight deficiency, however, small, is reported to them, the fathers and mothers of school children should lose no time in securing the best possible advice looking to the removing of the handicap faced by their offspring.

Many lines of life endeavor do not require excessive use of the eyes, and men and women with even markedly deficient eyesight are as well equipped for them as those with perfect vision, provided their educational advantages have been the same. The real handicap of defective eyes, therefore, comes during the school age of our boys and girls, and it is then especially that parents should leave nothing undone to correct any deficiencies of nature.

MAKE COTTON FASHIONABLE.

From time to time there have been sentimental appeals here in the south for the general adoption of cotton wearing apparel by our southern men, women and children. The practice was urged as a substantial benefit to the cotton-growers, textile manufacturers and merchandisers.

The appeal is worthy to be heeded and translated from sentiment to a practical custom. There was a time in our southern life when our fairly only dependence for clothing was upon the products of our home and cotton factory looms. That was during the War Between the States. Our mills turned out denim and seersucker fabrics that were universally worn for summer clothing and jeans for the winter, especially for the soldiers in the service. There were other fabrics of cotton that our women and children wore with comfort and much of fashionable grace.

In the present improved state of cotton fabric manufactures it should be easy and economical, as well as characteristically patriotic, for our people to revert to the use of our home cloths for their personal vestments. They can be wrought into suits and dresses quite as comfortable and attractive as those sent to us from the east or from abroad.

Southern textile manufacturers and merchants, particularly our domestic tailors, should consider this subject seriously and effectively "sell" the idea to the southern people of wearing home goods upon either their homely or handsome persons. It might lead to worthwhile economic gains to the cotton industries of the south and its people in general.

TO FIGHT DOWN MALARIA.

The action of the state board of health in starting a campaign against malaria in the region of which Cordele is the center is a valuable undertaking. The prevalence of malarial diseases, so-called, in some regions of the state is to be deplored and any practical measures to minimize the extent of those ailments will be of great comfort and profit to the people.

The higher office of medicine and sanitation as sciences is to prevent rather than cure disease. What is commonly known as malarial diseases have long afflicted the inhabitants of sections of the state. That their prevalence can be largely prevented is well known to medical and hygienic science, but mostly the prevention must be had by the health education and personal co-operation of the people liable to be attacked by such diseases.

There are good authorities for the belief that "malaria" is a misnomer for the cause of the disease in question. Malaria means "bad air" and it is not conceivable that the air of a whole wide region should be constantly "bad" and sickening. Science has developed that quite commonly it is not malaria, or "bad air," but mal-aqua, or bad water, that is the cause of the so-called malarial diseases. That has been found to be the fact in many regions of the earth.

What the cause, or causes, may be found to be in the Cordele area will doubtless be ascertained by the expert survey under way by the state board of health. The hope will be held acute that the result will be a great and saving improvement of the health conditions in the region under inspection.

Doesn't seem in the cards for "the Cards" to win that world series.

Hindenburg should use his old shrewdness to that contrary reichstag.

Talk about eugenic marriages for Georgia! What we need is hermetically sealed ones.

That missing Judge Crater, of New York, has not yet erupted anywhere in sight.

It is called a world series because of the series of fans in the grandstand and on the bleachers.

Bishop Cannon knows what he did, but is wondering whether his accusers know as much.

The way out of a depression is to stay up and keep going.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PAASEN

Palestine's Progress.

The leveling hand of time is gradually reducing the events in Palestine last year to their proper proportions. It may now be said that in the perspective of history the troubles, horrifying as they were, will not assume any major position in the annals of a people that counts its massacres by the dozens from the days of Egyptian Pharaohs via the middle ages to the present pogroms. What has happened in Palestine since August, 1914, is of far greater import. It amounts in reality to a reversion of the Balfour declaration. Immigration has now come to a standstill in a territory in which the mandatory power solemnly undertook the close settlement of Jews on the land. The Jews, who have been in Palestine since the days of the first century, are now being driven out of the land. Those who are there have not been cast down by events, political and otherwise, but by the brethren and well-wishers in the rest of the world. They even believe, and none should be able to judge better than they who are on the ground, that co-operation and peace relations between Arabs and Jews in the Holy Land will be a possibility in the future. All they ask is that they be allowed to work out the Arab problem of agricultural improvement and industrialization. The rest will take care of itself. For it must be obvious that as soon as the Arab peasants, who are the descendants of a people with a brilliant civilization, begin to realize that the Jews intend them no harm, but that the co-operation between the two branches of the Semitic family has hitherto been prevented by the representatives of a few feudal families, they will shake off the yoke, as the peoples of Europe have done in the past, and work together with the Jews for the rebuilding of their common country. Indications are that this spirit is being kindled among the Arabs. No doubt there will be clashes yet from time to time in the future. Feudalism has no more to offer than the old world, but it is capable of finding dupes to attempt and halt the march of civilization. But as everywhere else, civilization will triumph in the end.

World's Crossroads.

If the present ratio of immigration of artists into France keeps up, it looks as if there will come a time, inevitably, when Paris will be one vast cafe. As it is the Boulevard Montparnasse has been transformed in the last five years from a quiet half-suburban outer-boulevard where the inhabitants went to bed at the stroke of 10 to the most animated quarter on earth. The hub of the intersection of Montparnasse and Raspail, which Sley Huddellone rightly called the crossroads of the world. This center of the world is a place of intense life and activity. Without a hint of the slightest outward stimulant, for music is unknown in these cafes, a whole world of life is being lived. The quarter gets into a fever of atmosphere of discussion by that time. A stroll between the tables will reveal you with an air of conversation in all the languages of the universe. Here is a group of young Russians working themselves up into ecstasy over Stalin and five-year plan, there white Russians exiles, exiles sit around Bouine the writer. There are groups of Italian fascists and anti-fascists. Kerensky stands in one corner. The next night the Italian Ben-Avi will be the first Palestine to talk Hebrew. Surrealist poets, young Dutch painters, Flemish authors, Hungarian patriots, Polish dreamers, Spanish anarchists, all hold forth on their favorite themes without ever quitting their own circle. The fate and destiny of mankind is decided in these cafes. It is not only to require a new solution on the morrow. Graduate Standing Compiled.
A report on the standing of graduates of Georgia high schools of the southern list who were graduated in June, 1929, and entered a college in September, 1929, has been compiled by Secretary Joseph Roemer and announced by Dr. J. S. Stewart, of the University of Georgia.

There are 105 schools on the southern list in Georgia. These schools enrolled 29,567. They graduated 4,959 students in June, 1929. Two thousand one hundred and nine were reported by the principals as entering college. The records of 2,039 were furnished by the registrars of the colleges. Of this total reported by the registrars, 1,000 failed in one or more semester hours during the first term in college. Eight and three-tenths per cent failed in English; 9.3 per cent failed in French; 9.9 per cent failed in history; 9.1 per cent failed in Latin; 22.9 per cent failed in mathematics; 17 per cent failed in science; 20.5 per cent failed in Spanish, and 5.8 per cent failed in other subjects. A total of 28,298 semester hours was passed and 3,867 semester hours were failed, making the per cent of semester hours failed for the entire 105 schools 12 per cent.

Nine of the 105 schools having no semester hours failed; 50 schools have a per cent below the average of 12; five of the schools had a per cent of 12; 18 schools range between 12 per cent and 20 per cent; 20 schools range between 20 per cent and 30 per cent; and three schools failed over 30 per cent.

"We have reported to the principals of each school the per cent of semester hours failed," Dr. Stewart said. "He can, therefore, compare his per cent with the others of the 105 schools."

The annual bulletin showing the records of the students in the first term of college will be sent to all of the schools and colleges in the state.

Behind in Alimony, Man Commits Suicide

DUBLIN, Ga., Oct. 3.—(AP)—Cecil Stinson, 25, died Friday from what county officers say was self-inflicted gunshot wound. Inability to pay alimony to his estranged wife is said to have caused the suicide.

Officers who investigated stated that the gun evidently had been placed against his heart, but as the trigger was pulled the gun slipped and the charge went into his chest and left shoulder. He died at once at a local hospital, a few hours after the shooting.

GROUND IS BROKEN FOR REINHARDT GYM

WALESKA, Ga., Oct. 3.—The students, faculty and friends of Reinhardt College celebrated the ground breaking program for a new gymnasium here.

In a brief address President Bratton told the story of how the gymnasium program was promoted and also explained to the student body the plans of the building. After this address Rev. L. G. Martin led in prayer. The students showing the four corners of the building had already been set, and Mrs. W. M. Bratton lifted the first shovel full of dirt from the site where the gymnasium will stand. The student body then sang their Alma Mater and gave several yells suitable to the occasion.

The construction of this gymnasium is the result of a campaign started last spring by the Canton Chamber of Commerce. The people of Cherokee county have subscribed liberally to the building and friends elsewhere have also given generous support. At a recent meeting of the board of trustees, expressed a great deal of interest in this building and gave the construction of it his entire approval. The building committee immediately went to work, employed an architect and decided upon the building plans.

The plans show a building 96 feet long and 60 feet wide with a playing field for basketball, indoor baseball and volleyball, as well as providing for regular gymnastic exercises. At one end of the building there is to be a balcony for spectators and seats are to be built on both sides of the playing court. In the basement of the building are shower baths and dressing rooms for boys and girls.

Freed From Pen, Man Buys Auto With 'Bad' Check

MACON, Ga., Oct. 3.—(AP)—H. B. Jones, late of the federal penitentiary, has got himself into a precarious situation here and is liable to return to the penitentiary on Friday.

The state of Georgia also has a claim on his road-building abilities. Jones was released from the penitentiary recently on parole, with some two years more to serve. He came to Macon and decided here that he needed an automobile in his business. Mr. Williams, of Macon, agreed to a tryout, and they speeded over the Spring street bridge. It was okay, and Jones, who gave his name as Miller, complacently paroled, with $225, the purchase price, and took possession of the automobile.

Mr. Williams deposited the check with his own personal funds.

Within a short while, however, Jones was in the police barracks. Police men had arrested him in an effort to sell an extra tire. He said he was disposing of it to buy gasoline for a hurried exit from the city.

Recorder M. Felton Hatcher committed the man to superior court until bond of $500 when Mr. Williams reported that the check was "not good."

BAINBRIDGE TAXES REDUCED 5 MILLS

Statement Made by J. D. Bower After Study of Two Months.

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Oct. 3.—Bainbridge taxes have been reduced from 25 mills to 20 mills, according to J. D. Bower, chairman of taxes for city council, and his committee of B. F. Lewis and J. C. Hale.

After a study of the work for two months the following statement has been given out by Mr. Bower:

"Decrease in the assessment on real estate for white people is approximately $12,500 and for the colored people $6,000. Increase on personal property of white people is approximately $35,000 and a decrease of $2,200 for negroes.

"In 1928-1929 the total assessment of the city of Bainbridge decreased approximately $100,000 each year. In 1930 the assessments increased about $15,536, and while the real estate assessments decreased the personal property increased sufficiently to overcome the decrease in the real estate assessments, and have a surplus over 1929 of $15,536." The total assessments in Bainbridge, according to J. D. Bower, are approximately $4,000,000.

"The tax millage in 1929 was 25 mills, but with the program of strict economy practiced by the present administration the millage has been reduced, and it is authoritatively stated that in addition to the above reduction the present administration will be able to pay in 1930 25 per cent of city debt that was incurred previous to this administration."

Youth's Speech and Hearing Restored by Airplane Ride

WAYCROSS, Ga., Oct. 3.—Francis M. Roberts, a deaf and dumb youth who has been under the care of the Salvation Army in Waycross by the past week took his first air ride. Now he can talk and hear.

His speech and hearing were restored when the plane soared to a height of 10,000 feet, then went into a dive toward the earth. "I felt something pop in the back of my head, and then I heard the sound of the motor. It sounded like the plane was tearing itself to pieces," Roberts said a few minutes after the plane landed at the Ware county airport. He was so jubilant that he talked in gasps for the first few minutes but didn't stop talking.

The plane at the airport is owned by Frank Light and Orlando Roberts, having been brought directly from Roosevelt field, New York, a week ago with Paul D. Ball as pilot. Orlando Roberts, one of the owners of the plane, is no relation to Francis Roberts.

Having read that hearing and speech have been restored by the flights, the deaf and dumb youth went to the airport, accompanied by Lieutenant Matthew Haralok, of the Salvation Army. The owners of the plane agreed to carry him up without any charge, having little faith, however, that they could turn miracle workers.

Roberts was smiling from ear to ear when he jumped out the plane. "It was the first sound I had heard in a year," he said, describing the terrific roar of the motor which jarred his ear drums after a dive of approximately 3,000 feet. Roberts drifted into Waycross about a week ago penniless. He has been doing odd jobs for the Salvation Army to pay for his lodging and other odd jobs have paid for his meals.

He was willing to work and made a number of friends. He was more or less a mystic, since he could not tell of his past life, but he gave pie-meal information as to his name and home.

With his speech restored, he revealed that he was born in Santa Rosa, Cal., and that he lost his speech and hearing when he fell from a two-story window in Detroit, on October 10, 1929.

"I went to a number of doctors but they called it a hopeless case," he said. "I don't know what the trouble was but it must have been in the back of my head because that's where I heard the pop when my hearing came back."

Roberts said he was now a member of the Salvation Army and was working for the army as a janitor. He said he was now a member of the Salvation Army and was working for the army as a janitor. He said he was now a member of the Salvation Army and was working for the army as a janitor.

Student Newspaper Praises Work Of Univ. of Georgia Administration

ATHENS, Ga., Oct. 3.—Pointing to the "strides for the improvement and development of a great educational center" at the University of Georgia, the current issue of The Red and Black, student newspaper, sets forth editorially some of the things that have been done under the administration of Chancellor Charles M. Snell and Dean S. V. Sanford.

The editorial reads in part: "During this period a division of university affairs has been developed to point out the university now has approximately as many students outside of Athens as there are on the campus; a department of music has been organized under the able direction of Professor Hugh Hodgson; and a new organ has been installed in the chapel for its use; the campus has been beautified with additional shrubbery and even old college is a thing of beauty; the commerce-journalism building, erected some two years ago, has doubled the classroom capacity of the university; work in the Henry W. Grady school of journalism has been placed on a practical basis by the outfitting of an editorial and typographical laboratory, superior to that of any college in the south; a bureau of business research designed to study the economic wealth of the state has been formed; the Lumpkin law school has recently been placed on the accredited list of the American Association of Law Schools, and plans are being completed for a new law school building, which will be situated opposite the commerce-journalism building; a new military building, to be located near Woodruff hall, is rapidly being constructed; the tennis courts are to be moved on Horty field and these are a few of the improvements at the university which come to mind of off-hand."

Athletically, the university is beginning what will prove to be perhaps the most successful year in its history. Beautiful Sanford stadium, erected at a large cost and dedicated so successfully last year, will be under way in the fall. The football team, this year will be the scene of several outstanding football games.

"It is in this era of rapid progress that it becomes the duty of the Red and Black to keep pace with other functions of the university, and it is the purpose of this development that it will strive."

The MURDER at the VICARAGE

BY AGATHA CHRISTIE

INSTALLMENT X.

"But the dear Vicar was not here at the time?" Miss Marple questioned of Griselda.

"Explained where I had been," Miss Marple said, glancing round.

"Dennis," said Griselda, "fancies himself as an amateur detective. He is very excited about a footprint he found in one of the flower beds and I fancy has gone off to tell the police about it."

"Dear dear," said Miss Marple. "Such a to do, is it not? And Mr. Dennis thinks he knows who committed the crime. Well, I suppose we all think we know."

"You mean it is obvious?" said Griselda.

"No, dear, I didn't mean that at all. I dare say every one thinks it is somebody different. That is why it is so important to have proofs. For instance, am quite convinced I know who did it. But I must admit I haven't one shadow of proof. One must, I know, be very careful of what one says at a time like this—criminal libel, don't they call it?"

"I had made up my mind to be most careful with Inspector Slack. He sent word he would come and see me this morning, but now he has just phoned up to say it won't be necessary after all."

"I suppose, since the arrest, it isn't necessary," I said.

"The arrest?" Miss Marple leaned forward, her cheeks pink with excitement. "I didn't know there had been an arrest."

"It is so seldom that Miss Marple is less informed than we are that I had taken it for granted that she would know the latest developments."

"It seems we have been talking at cross purposes," I said. "Yes, there has been an arrest—Lawrence Redding."

"Lawrence Redding?" Miss Marple seemed very surprised. "Now I should not have thought—"

Griselda interrupted vehemently. "I can't believe it even now. No, not though he has actually confessed."

"Confessed?" said Miss Marple. "You say he has confessed? Of dear, I see I have been sadly at sea—yes, sadly at sea."

"I can't help feeling it must have been some kind of an accident," said Griselda. "Don't you think so, Len?"

"I mean his coming forward to give himself up looks like that," said Miss Marple, leaning forward eagerly. "He gave himself up, you say?"

"Yes," said Miss Marple, with a deep sigh. "I am so glad—so very glad. I looked at her in some surprise. I mean his coming forward to give himself up looks like that."

"Remorse?" Miss Marple looked very surprised. "Of dear, I see I have been sadly at sea—yes, sadly at sea."

"It was my turn to stare. 'But since he has confessed—' 'Yes, but that just proves it doesn't? I mean that he had nothing to do with it.'"

"No," I said. "I may be dense, but I can't see that it does. If you have not committed a murder, I cannot see the object of pretending you have."

"Of course, there's a reason," said Miss Marple. "Naturally. There's always a reason, isn't there? And young men are so hot-headed and often prone to believe the worst."

"If you had seen his face last night—" I began.

"Tell me," said Miss Marple. I described my homecoming while she listened attentively.

"When I had just proved to her that I know that I am very often rather foolish and don't take in things as I should, but I really do not see your point."

"It seems to me that if a young man had made up his mind to the great wickedness of taking a fellow creature's life, he would not appear so disconcerted about it afterward. It would be a premeditated and cold-blooded action and though the murderer might be a little flurried and possibly might make some small mistake, I do not think it likely he would fall into a state of agitation such as you describe. It is difficult to put oneself in such a position, but I cannot imagine getting into a state like that myself."

"We don't know the circumstances," I argued. "If there was a quarrel, the shot may have been fired in a sudden gust of passion, and Lawrence might afterward have been appalled at what he had done. Indeed, I prefer to think that that is what did actually occur."

"I know, dear Mr. Clement, that there are many ways we prefer to look at things. But one must actually take facts as they are, must one not? And it does not seem to me that the facts bear the interpretation you put upon them. Your maid distinctly stated that Mr. Redding was only in the house a couple of minutes, not long enough, surely, for a quarrel such as you describe. And then again, I understand the colonel was shot through the back of the head while he was writing a letter—at least that is what my maid told me."

"Quite true," said Griselda. "He seems to have been writing a note to say he couldn't wait any longer. The note was dated 6:20 and the clock on the table was overturned, and had stopped at 6:22, and that's just what has been puzzling Len and myself so frightfully."

"She explained our custom of keeping the clock a quarter of an hour fast."

"Very curious," said Miss Marple. "Very curious indeed. But the note seems to me even more curious still. I mean—"

"She stopped and looked around. Lettice Protheroe was standing outside the window. She came in, dropped into a chair and said with rather more animation than usual."

"They've arrested Lawrence, I hear," said Griselda. "It's been a great shock to us."

"I never really thought any one would murder Mr. Redding, but I was obviously taking a pride in letting no hint of distress or emotion escape her. 'Lots of people wanted to see if you'd got my here—here—a queer little yellow one. I think I left it in the study the other day.'"

"If you did, it's there still," said Griselda. "Mary never tidies anything."

"I'll go and see," said Lettice rising. "Sorry to be such a bother, but I seem to have lost everything else in the hat line."

"I'm afraid you can't get it now," I said. "Inspector Slack has locked the room up."

"O, what a bore. Can't we get in through the window?"

"I'm afraid not," said Lettice. "I shan't bother about morning. I think it's an awfully archaic idea. It's a nuisance about Lawrence—yes, it's a nuisance."

"I never really thought any one would murder Mr. Redding, but I was obviously taking a pride in letting no hint of distress or emotion escape her. 'Lots of people wanted to see if you'd got my here—here—a queer little yellow one. I think I left it in the study the other day.'"

"I suppose it's all on account of me and my bathing dress. So silly, the whole thing. . . ."

"Griselda opened her mouth to say something but for some unexplained reason shut it again."

A curious smile came to Lettice's lips.

"I think," she said softly, "I'll go home and tell Anne about Lawrence being arrested."

"She went out of the window again. Griselda turned to Miss Marple."

"Why did you step on my foot?"

"I thought you were going to say something, my dear. And it is often so much better to let things develop on their own lines. I don't think, you know, that that child is half so vague as she pretends to be. She's got a very definite idea in her head and she's acting upon it."

Mary gave a loud knock on the dining room door and entered.

"What is it?" said Griselda. "And, Mary, you must remember not to knock on doors. I've told you about it before."

"Thought you might be busy," said Mary. "Colonel Melchett's here. Wants to see the master."

Colonel Melchett is chief constable of the county. "What is it?" said Griselda. "And, I thought you wouldn't like my leaving him in the hall, so I put him in the drawing room," went on Mary. "Shall I clear?"

Miss Trannie Kerr And Mr. Young Are Wedded

The marriage of Miss Trannie Kerr and Eulis T. Young was quietly solemnized Friday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. G. W. Smith, in West End. The ceremony was performed before an improvised altar of palms and ferns. Floor baskets of fall blossoms were placed at either side. Burning tapers in branching candelabra furnished the light for the wedding.

Mrs. Claude White, pianist, of Shannon, Ga., and Miss Annie Morrison, vocalist, of Chattanooga, Tenn., presented a musical program. The Rev. E. P. Carson officiated, and the impressive ring ceremony.

The bride's only attendant was her cousin, Miss Fannie Lou Smith, while the groom's brother, Dennis Young, acted as best man. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Charles C. Kerr.

The bride was lovely in a fall model of steel blue with accessories to match, and her corsage was of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Smith wore a wine colored frock with corresponding accessories. Her flowers were Cladus Fernet roses and freesia.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was given. The bride's table held a central decoration of white dahlias. An ice course in the chosen colors was served.

Mrs. Young is the only daughter of Charles C. Kerr, of Smyrna, Ga. She received her education at the Adairville High School and University of Georgia.

Mr. Young is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Young, of Athens, and is connected with the John Smith Motor Company.

Mr. and Mrs. Young left on a southern motor trip and upon their return will reside at 543 Hopkins street, S. W.

Out-of-town guests were: Miss Annie Morrison, Chattanooga; Mrs. C. E. White, Shannon, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Kinnamon, Rome, Ga.; Mrs. E. S. Payne, Mrs. Walter Donahoe, Miss Catherine Payne, Miss Lucinda Chittwood, Louie and Clyde Smith, Cartersville, Ga.

At the end of the hunt all the guests were outfitted in pirate costumes.

to being lazy. He was feeling extremely good-natured. He had had his fill of sweet beechnuts. There was nothing more he wanted. He stopped close by the tree, around which Impy was dodging. Impy saw his chance. He darted out right under Buster Bear. Buster was back to him at the time and didn't see him. Sharpshin and Mrs. Sharpshin screamed their rage and disappointment. They didn't dare swoop at Impy there. Buster Bear thought they were shrieking at him, so he growled at them. As for Impy, he watched his chance and presently got safely away. As soon as he had he went back to his nuts. They were not there. You see, Chatterer, the Red Squirrel, had watched the whole performance and he had taken those nuts at the very first opportunity.

Drouth-Hit Farmers Canning Cuck Stock

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Farmers in some of the most severely stricken drouth areas were reported today by the department of agriculture to be canning the cull animals from their herds for winter food.

In some instances the canning is of a community nature, with businessmen and bankers lending their assistance. It was pointed out that the culling and canning fill the two-fold purpose of supplying food for the family and conserving short feed supplies for the better live stock.

A campaign for the canning of cull beehives and chickens was conducted in Arkansas with town people co-operating with the farmers.

"In most counties," the department said, "meat canning centers with cold storage facilities and screened workrooms were set up. Thorough chilling and meticulous attention to sanitation details are of great importance when meat canning is done in warm weather."

The chairman last week said committee investigators had determined enough data had been received to warrant an inquiry in North Carolina. Charges have been made, Nye stated, that "outside money" was used in behalf of Josiah W. Bailey, of Raleigh, who won the democratic senatorial nomination over the veteran Senator Furnifold M. Simmons, of New Bern.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

IMPY SPILLS A LOAD OF NUTS.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Danger lurks where least suspected. And oft appears when least expected.—Old Mother Nature.

It never does to be so intent on one thing that everything else is forgotten. It is dangerous. It has cost the lives of many of the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows. It caused Impy, the black Chipmunk, to lose two pockets full of sweet little beechnuts. He was lucky, very lucky, that he did not lose his life as well. He might have. Yes, indeed, he might have.

You see, this was Impy's first harvest. He was working very hard indeed to fill the storerooms in his snug home. There were many other nut harvesters and so Impy worked fast, wholly intent on getting his share. As a matter of fact, he had his share and more, too.

Now, there were other people interested in that harvest—people who themselves did not eat beechnuts. They were not interested in the beechnuts, but they were interested in some of the little people who were gathering the beechnuts. One of these was Sharpshin, the Hawk. He was especially interested in Striped Chipmunk and Impy and little Mrs. Impy. When seen by them, he watched until he knew just what way they went and how they went, as they hurried to and fro, now with their pockets filled and again with their pockets empty. Then he hid his time. It came soon. Impy, with both cheeks stuffed with beechnuts until he couldn't get another one in, started for home. He was so intent on getting there that he didn't even look around for possible danger. He thought that there was such a thing as "Look out!" shrieked Striped Chipmunk suddenly. "Look out, Impy!" Impy didn't stop to look. He simply dodged behind a tree and he was none too soon. There was the sharp whistle of wings as Sharpshin swooped and barely missed him. Sharpshin turned quickly and came swooping back. Striped Chipmunk dodged around to the other side of the tree. Once again he was barely in time. Then Impy did a wise thing. He emptied both pockets of the nuts they contained. He realized that he couldn't dodge with his cheeks swelled out as they were with those pockets full. Neither could he run as he might have to run. He did it none too soon, for Sharpshin was joined by Mrs. Sharpshin and Impy needed every bit of his speed and dodging ability.

For a few minutes it was breathless work. Sharpshin would swoop and Impy would dodge around the tree, only to be swooped at by Mrs. Sharpshin. It began to look bad for Impy. It was just about this time that Buster Bear came along. He came shuffling along lazily, for he is given

SAVE MONEY... but not at the expense of Food Quality

A talk to 10,000,000 American consumers of margarine who are allowed to spend their MONEY but not to know the FACTS

ONE of the biggest compliments the producers of Nucoa ever had was when they were once accused of making a "snob" margarine.

A margarine could be sold for 5 cents a pound less than Nucoa. But we couldn't call it Nucoa... because it would not be Nucoa.

We are not interested in cheap materials, cheap equipment or cheap methods.

We are interested in the best materials the market provides; the best brains we can engage and the best scientific equipment obtainable. We pay the prices for brains, materials and equipment.

If this is snobbery then it's the kind of snobbery that gives the American housewife the benefit.

How Far Can Cheapness Go?

There is always a temptation to make food products cheaper and cheaper in order to attract the housewife with price bait.

Sooner or later this policy works against the woman buyer.

The time comes when she can no longer trust the quality. Botherome questions pop up in her mind. Now is the time to bring these questions about the margarine you use to the front.

Does it have an "oldish" taste? This means that the oils are inferior or that it is not fresh.

Does it have a slightly grayish color? Again inferior oils.

Does it leave an after-taste of odd, disturbing flavor? Many details of slipshod manufacture can cause this.

Is it absolutely pure? Here you have to take the word of the maker.

Whose Word Can You Take About Margarine?

Some people still think that one margarine is just about the same as another.

They do not recognize that quality margarine should be a food delicacy and not a cheap commercial article.

The makers of Nucoa... who do recognize that Nucoa is a food delicacy... not only maintain the highest standard of quality in America (and perhaps the whole world) but they also created this standard.

Here's how they maintain this standard:

Control of materials at the beginning. The makers of Nucoa refine their own coconut oils.

Military rules of cleanliness. Housewives who pride themselves on their scoured pots and pans should see the Nucoa operators clean their utensils with live, scalding steam.

Tests... tests... tests for every batch of Nucoa.

Tests for clearness of color. The whiter the margarine the better the oils. Nucoa is snowy white. The color wafer supplied you with each pound of Nucoa is absolutely pure and is approved by the U. S. Government. By coloring Nucoa yourself you can obtain the color you prefer for your own table use.

Tests for texture. Tests for flavor. Nucoa is rich and delicious. Remember, also, that Nucoa is absolutely free from animal fats.

The Expensive Secret... CONTROL

Then the Master Control... that costly system of distribution and checking that assures freshness.

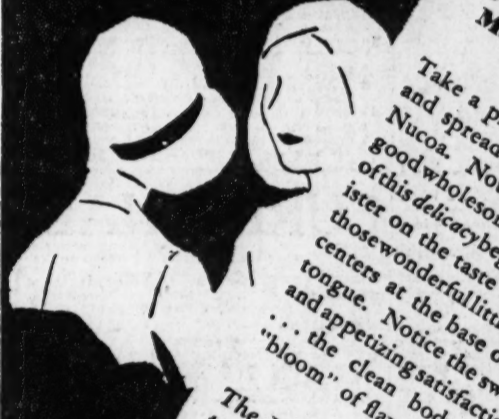

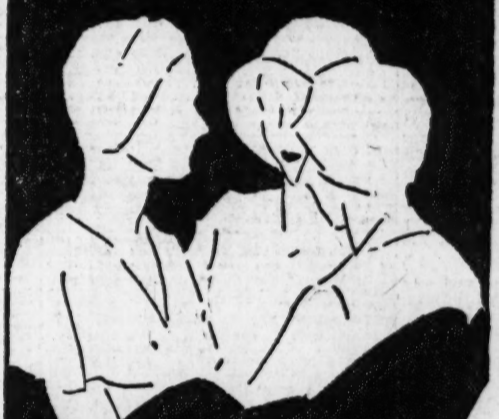

Nucoa is shipped fresh every day. It is sold faster by your grocer and delivered to him more frequently than any other margarine, by carefully selected distributors who have years of experience in handling perishable foods and delicacies.

No matter where you live you buy Nucoa with our sure knowledge that it is strictly fresh, for the Best Foods Central Laboratory in New York City has a "checking sample" of the Nucoa your grocer sells you. This "checking sample" is regularly tested for quality and freshness.

No other margarine is guarded by controlled freshness. No other margarine has the distributive organization and Master Control.

Remember these FACTS when you go to the store for your margarine supply.

Try the personal Hot-Toast Test described in this advertisement.

The Hot-Toast Test Is Your Personal Margarine Test

Take a piece of hot toast and spread liberally with Nucoa. Notice how the good wholesome elements of this delicacy begin to register on the taste buds... those wonderful little taste centers at the base of the tongue. Notice the sweet and appetizing satisfaction... the clean body and "bloom" of flavor.

The Hot-Toast Test will prove to you that Nucoa is UNLIKE any other margarine.

DAY IN FINANCE

By R. L. BARNUM

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—Professional traders pounded the stock market on and off during the day but the undertone of the market was better showing more of a tendency to recover after declines. The volume was light.

Montgomery Ward and Southern Railway were outstanding for weakness. Yesterday's poor September sales statement by Montgomery Ward raised uncertainty about continuation of the 33 annual dividend. The directors meet to act on the dividend on October 22.

Southern Railway broke over 3 points early in the day to 73-1/4 before there was any hesitation. That price compares with this year's high of 130-3/4, with last year's high of 102-1/8 and with the high record of 165-5/8 for 1928.

Southern has an irregular dividend record. The initial dividend on the common stock was declared in 1906 at the annual rate of 5 per cent. Payments were first reduced and then passed in 1912. The 5 per cent rate was resumed in 1914. Payments were again passed in 1914 with the 5 per cent rate resumed in 1916. In February of 1928 the rate was raised to 8 per cent.

According to the recently issued August statement of earnings Southern Railway, allowing for seasonal fluctuations, will not earn 4 per cent for its common stock this year. Recent selling of this stock has been on dividend uncertainty. However, in the best banking circles here no important railroad is expected to change its dividend this year. What happens next year depends on the trend of general trade.

Earnings Gain.

Electric Bond & Share reports net profit for the year ending with June of $41,000,000 equal to $2.55 a share on the average number of 13,902,000 shares outstanding for the year against $22,711,000 or $2.22 for the year ending December 31. The company reports an accumulated surplus as of June 30 of $805,000,000.

Dodge announced a reduction of $100 of all six and eight-cylinder cars. Yesterday Chrysler announced a price reduction.

A stock exchange sent changed bids today for $200,000 up $50,000 from the last sale, and then another one was sold at $258,000, down $2,000. A seat on the Chicago Stock Exchange sold today for $19,000, down $2,000 from the last sale.

Copper producers stated today that sales of copper the past week have been the largest since July. Early in the week there was a further reduction in the price of copper to 10 cents for domestic with a corresponding rise in the export price. The present selling price of copper is the lowest.

CHINESE BANDITS EXECUTE WOMEN

LONDON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—News which horrified all England was received in a cable to the London headquarters of the Church Missionary Society today, saying that two of its women missionaries, Miss Edith Nettleton and Miss Eleanor June Harrison, had been shot by the Chinese bandits who had held them captive since last June.

The message which told of the tragedy was very brief: "Nettleton and Harrison shot. Cause of death not stated. Miss Nettleton and Miss Harrison had been held captive since last June."

The envoy referred to is the British consul at Foochow, A. J. Martin, who had gone upriver from Foochow to negotiate the release of the women, while Miss Nettleton and Miss Eleanor June Harrison, who accompanied Martin on his mission, were shot.

The foreign office said it had received a message from Martin while he was in the interior, stating briefly that he had received word from Kienyang saying Miss Nettleton and Miss Harrison had been shot.

The women were captured at Chungking, Northern Szechwan province, last June while they were traveling to Kienyang. Long negotiations followed and at one time the bandits sent one of Miss Nettleton's fingers to the British consul authorities, threatening death to the women if ransom were not paid. The bandits first asked $100,000, reduced it later to $50,000 and eventually got down to $10,000.

All here who knew the women testified today to the courage and devotion which impelled them to follow their husbands and dangerous work through many years in strife-torn China.

President Returns To Capital Duties

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Back from his two-day trip to Cleveland and Philadelphia, President Hoover had the week-end to spend at home before he departs again Sunday night to speak twice in Boston on Monday and again on Tuesday at King's Mountain battlefield, South Carolina.

He was considering going tomorrow to his summer lodge in Virginia, where his son, Herbert Hoover, Jr., is taking medical treatment for a tubercular infection.

An accumulation of work lay on the chief executive's desk upon his return early today from the Ohio city where he addressed the American Bankers' Association. Because of this he was undecided whether he would be able to motor to the Rapidan river lodge. If he does, he will return late Friday and leave a few hours later for Boston.

There he is to address the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor, leaving immediately afterward on his special train for a 21-hour run to the sequentennial anniversary celebration of the Battle of King's Mountain.

One of Mr. Hoover's first tasks after arriving at his desk was to complete the draft of his speech before the labor convention. The speech was finished before he left for Cleveland.

Broadwayites Bid Donahue Farewell

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—In the heart of the district which so recently the boards clattered nightly with its rhythmic dancing, funeral services were held today for Jack Donahue.

Requiem mass was celebrated in St. Malachy's church in West 46th street, a large church but crowded to the doors with actors and admirers who came to pay their last respects to the comic dancer who lifted himself from a medicine show to Broadway stardom.

Outside, from Broadway to Eighth avenue, traffic had to be diverted. Only a few weeks ago "Sons of Guns," Donahue's show, closed its long Broadway tour. Then he went on tour, but his health began to fail. He had to leave the show in Cincinnati because of a complication of illness.

He came back to New York under medical care, but despite his natural robust health and his youth, he was only 38, he died on Wednesday.

Roosevelt Charges Tuttle Is Evasive

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Accepting renomination tonight, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt asserted that former Federal Attorney Charles H. Tuttle's reply as to signing a state enforcement act "bears earmarks" of the same old "policy of being wet and dry at the same time." Tuttle is the republican gubernatorial nominee.

The governor declared Mr. Tuttle's answer was "not forthcoming until my friend had hastened over to Philadelphia and consulted with the president himself."

Saying that Tuttle's reply, when it was made after two days, was evasive, he exclaimed that it was "the same old story of republican hypocrisy."

In attacking the republican candidate's answer on the state enforcement act question, Governor Roosevelt declared it to be a "long-handled lawyer-like way of saying 'yes' and 'no' at the same time."

New Picture Programs Are of Special Interest

Three Theaters Bring Three Features of More Than Ordinary Allure.

Rarely has Atlanta been offered three attractions in one week which equal in interest the three talking screen features which open in three of our popular theaters today:

"Lilium," at the Fox.
"Moby Dick," at the Georgia.
"The Bad Man," at the Paramount.

Three powerful pieces of testimony to the truth of the oft-repeated claim that the talking screen powers are turning more and more to intelligence as the salvation of the box office.

John Barrymore makes his first appearance since "General Crack" in "Moby Dick." Made from the classic tale of old whaling days, written by Herman Melville, the picture should prove tremendously interesting. It, at least, contains tremendous possibilities, and John Barrymore is not apt to overlook any. John Bennett is his leading lady.

The making of a talking picture version of "Lilium," the daring story by Franz Molnar, is intrinsically a daring gesture. Fox Films have, however, according to all reports, more than justified themselves by the result. With Charles Farrell as the star, this picture of a carnival Barker and the women who love him, with its scenes laid both in this life and in a mythical place where he goes after death, is one that no one should be able to miss.

And at the Paramount, Walter Huston stars as Porter Emerson Brown's remarkable story of the simple Mexican bandit who strives to be a kindly father who would mould events in favor of his friends by the simple expedient of killing their enemies and kidnapping, for them, the women they love. Needless to say, among modern civilized Americans the naïveté of the bandit causes more trouble than he tries to cure.

All three houses announce a splendid list of short subjects and it is evident that the week which starts Saturday evening, for these three, is going to be of rare interest and entertainment for talking picture fans.

4,500 Reported Slain, Towns Razed by Turks

LONDON, Oct. 3.—(UN)—An uncorroborated Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Jerusalem today reported the massacre by Turks of thousands of men, women and children and the destruction of hundreds of villages in the Zilan district of the Mosul region. The report said 4,500 persons had been slain. It added that Turkish aerial bombardments had killed hundreds in the Djemal, Agri and Taurul districts. Troops under Jevad Pasha and Kemal Eddin Pasha were declared to have destroyed a number of villages near Taurul.

The bombardments and raids were reported to have covered a wide area along the Taurus-Persian frontier, where Kurdish tribesmen have been causing trouble for months.

The Kurdish insurgents were reported to be defending a 65-mile front, stretching from Araki to the Bayazid district, just south of Mark Hanna, New York city, which leaves the property to the Dieppe Corporation, was not named in the complaint. Assistant United States Attorney Bishop said it is not customary to name the owner in padlock proceedings when the property is leased for as long as five years, the extent of the casino lease.

Padlock Suit Filed Against N. Y. Casino

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Suit to padlock the two lower floors of the Central Park casino, where New York society dines in splendor, for violation of the prohibition law, was filed in federal court today by the government.

The action resulted from a raid by prohibition agents June 24, in which they arrested Sidney Solomon, president of the corporation which leases the casino from the city, and nine employees, among them distinguished guests who watched the raid were Princess Obolensky, the former Alice Muriel Astor, and Miss Frances Marion Miller, a grand niece of Mark Hanna.

New York city, which leaves the property to the Dieppe Corporation, was not named in the complaint. Assistant United States Attorney Bishop said it is not customary to name the owner in padlock proceedings when the property is leased for as long as five years, the extent of the casino lease.

Cold Water Energy Delights Scientist

MATANZAS, Cuba, Oct. 3.—(AP)—Professor Georges Claude tonight informed the Associated Press that he had succeeded in producing 20 kilowatts of power today in his experiments to produce cheap industrial power from the waters of the gulf stream.

He said he expected to hold a semi-public test of his apparatus next Monday afternoon.

The French scientist, who has been working for nearly a year at his laboratory on Matanzas bay, produced double the amount of power generated by his big turbines when he first set them in motion yesterday. This surprised and pleased him.

Chilly weather recently, he explained, had reduced the ratio between water temperature at sea level and

BANK GUARD ADMITS HE FRAMED HOLDUP

Charlotte Robbery Results in Arrest of Four "Robbers."

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Oct. 3.—(AP) Police announced tonight that Carl Bailey, guard for the American Trust Company, had confessed that he and three men from Monroe, N. C., engineered the holdup of the bank's money truck Wednesday which resulted in the theft of $64,000.

Walter Thomas, Victor S. Hunter and Richard McManus, all of Washington, Union county, confessed their part in the robbery, police said, and were being held tonight in the Union jail at Monroe. Bailey, a former Charlotte policeman, was held in the city jail here.

Officers said they had recovered $28,000 of the missing money from Hunter's back yard where it had been buried. They said they expected to recover a large part of the remainder.

Police said the confessions completely exonerated Leroy Stanton, bank messenger for 10 years, who was with Bailey at the time of the "holdup."

Hunter was a deputy sheriff of Union county, and when his confession was made known by police, Sheriff Fowler, his chief, who had assisted in the investigation, demanded his resignation. It was given at once.

Thomas, who is a half-brother of Bailey's wife, told them the robbery had been planned for "almost two years," police said.

Birkenhead Funeral Marked by Simplicity

LONDON, Oct. 3.—(AP)—The funeral of Frederick Edwin Smith, first earl of Birkenhead, was held today in the ancient chapel of Gray's Inn, where the body of the one-time lord chancellor had rested since his death Tuesday.

The service was extremely simple, although those who attended came from the highest walks in British life. Lady Birkenhead, her sons and daughters were there. Afterward the body, accompanied only by the 22-year-old second earl and one friend, was taken to a crematorium. Tomorrow the ashes will be interred at Birkenhead's country house near Banbury.

TECH'S NEW SYSTEM.
Georgia Tech will flash a changed system of offense today against South Carolina. The reversed quarterback and balanced line of last year has disappeared and an unbalanced line and a formation not unlike the Alabama style is employed.

GAMECOCK'S TRICKY STYLE. South Carolina, under the tutelage of Billy Laval, veteran coach, has evolved a peculiar shifting formation for some of their plays in which the ball seems to disappear from view. Triple passes and double passes feature the attack and some of the plays defy analysis.

Tigers Have Stiffest Foes of Major Eastern Eleven's Today--Roper

AMHERST SURE
TEST GREEN
TEAM SEVERLY

Yale May Get Good Workout With Maryland But Should Win.

By W. W. (Bill) Roper,
Princeton Football Coach.
(Copyright, 1930, for The Constitution by the North American Newspaper Alliance.)
PRINCETON, Oct. 8.—In the east,
Princeton in its opening game against Amherst this Saturday will run up against the stiffest opposition. Amherst has a very strong team, at its best. Last Saturday demonstrated, while the Tigers have a green team, composed of a lot of sophomores.

Practice games against Rider College and Villanova have given the Princeton players some outside experience, however. The game should be close. Last year's score was certainly close enough. The Tigers winning.
I will be satisfied with a single touchdown again.

Yale meets Maryland, reputed to have another strong team. Yale should win, but will get a good try-out. Army should have a very good game with Furman. Brown will do better than against Rhode Island. The Brown players didn't get going in the first game. The line is powerful and should handle its lighter opponents without much trouble.

LITTLE TROUBLE.
Bucknell and Carnegie Tech should have little difficulty with their opponents. Bucknell should give Colgate a game of a tryout. In view of the team's excellent showing against Middlebury, I look to see Columbia run up a substantial score on Union.
Cornell has a powerful eleven, the strongest for several years. Dobie has some fine backs. Niagara should not offer much opposition. Dartmouth will probably run up a big score against Bates. Harvard will find little difficulty with Vermont. The Franklin-Marshall and Catholic University game should be a close one.
I favor F. M. by a small score.

After Ursinus' splendid showing against Lehigh, I favor them over Haverford. Lafayette should defeat
Middlebury and Lehigh should beat
P. M. C. Last fall the Lehigh-P. M. C. game ended in a 20-0 tie.

The Navy opens against William & Mary. The southerners have a good passing attack, but are hardly strong enough to hold the Navy.

N. Y. U. and Penn State should win from West Virginia Wesleyan and Lebanon Valley without much difficulty, though they will meet spirited opposition.

SWARTHMORE WEAK.
Swarthmore usually gives Penn a good game, but last Saturday, much to my surprise, Drexel defeated Swarthmore, so Penn should not have much opportunity this time.

West Virginia generally gives Pitt a hard tussle and this Saturday should be no exception. Syracuse, with its powerful running attack, should have little difficulty with Hobart. I favor Temple and Villanova to win from St. Thomas and Gettysburg.

Kentucky will get a fine tryout against Sewanee. Florida and North Carolina State should have a close game. Duke will probably defeat Virginia. Georgia and Georgia Tech should win without much difficulty from Mercer and South Carolina.

Annual Fall Street Fair and Carnival. A difference in result in one game in the above list upsets two calculations.
Wayward's figuring on Tennessee is very drastic; none but an iron-head ever would pick the Volunteers, with the best team in their history, to lose three games. Wayward must have taken the recent conference ruling on Tennessee's August tryouts to heart.

WOMEN GOLFERS READY FOR MEET

Radium Springs To Be Host at Tourneys Monday.

RADIUM SPRINGS CLUB, Albany, Ga., Oct. 3.—(Special)—Georgia's latest golfers will assemble here Monday, for the first official tournament of the Georgia State Women's Golf Association, which will be in progress through October 11. Some three-score outstanding women golf players are expected to take part in the event.

It will not be a matter of all golf during the "power golf" tournament. Mrs. O. B. Keeler, wife of the well-known Atlanta golf writer, and president of the Georgia State Women's Golf Association, has arranged an impressive program of entertainment incident to the wedding of clubs.

A bridge tournament is scheduled each evening during the tournament. On Thursday afternoon the tournament contestants will pair off with Albany's male golfing population in a series of mixed foursomes, the winners to be rewarded with prizes. In addition, Atlanta, headquarters of the association, is expected to send the largest single delegation, headed by Mrs. Keeler and including such well-known feminine golfers as Miss Margaret Maddox, recognized as one of the most outstanding lady golfers in the state; Mrs. W. D. Dook, another stellar player, and Miss Helen Lowndes. There will be several others, of course, in Mrs. Keeler's coterie of fine golfers.

Albany, host city, will present a stellar array of talent. Thomasville, nearby, also will be well represented, as will Rome, Cartersville, Marietta, Gainesville, Griffin, Savannah, Waycross, LaGrange and Newnan.

The contestants will battle for possession of a perpetual trophy donated to the association by Barron G. Collier.

The officers of the state association are, in addition to Mrs. Keeler: Mrs. Y. G. Hilsman, Albany, vice president; Mrs. W. D. Dook, Atlanta, secretary; Mrs. Kenneth Howell, Savannah, treasurer, and directors, Mrs. Julian McCamy, Dalton; Mrs. Jerome Brown, Albany; Mrs. Charles Lanier, Americus; Miss Helen Lowndes, Atlanta; and Mrs. H. ## DUKE STRONGER FOR CAVALIERS

Return of Captain Davis Boosts Devils' Chances in Game Today.

DURHAM, N. C., Oct. 3.—As old grads arrived on the new campus here today for homecoming, they were greeted with the pleasing announcement that Captain Lee Davis, star tackle of last year, would return to the lineup against Virginia here tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Davis was a mainstay in the Duke line last year and his presence in the game against Virginia will materially aid the Duke team. He has played two years, and is one of the linemen who come out of their position to run interference.

Several other changes were announced by Coach Bellart. Hayes will be replaced by Hyatt in the starting lineup, but they will alternate at the right end post during the game. Taylor has been shifted from left tackle to Carpenter's right guard post to make room for Captain Davis. Brewer will be found at left end where he was shifted as Ersler, sensational sophomore fullback, got the reward for his line plunging in the South Carolina game. Mullen will start at quarter and the veteran Bill Murray at right half.

The following ladies will be among those present at the tournament: Atlanta—Mrs. W. D. Dook, Miss Margaret Maddox and Mrs. O. B. Keeler.

Happy Weather Medium Seen for Fair, Grid

For the opening of the Southeastern and the Tech-South Carolina football season at the school here, the weather late Friday announced he would make the difference and do his best to provide a suitable mixture for both winter and summer.

The fair will be a fair, which should suit folk and the football fans. Tomorrow there will be—with a temperature of about 64°—a sort of sun tan in the weather to synthesize with the pumpkins on exhibition. But this afternoon the thermometer is scheduled to spurt up as far as 75, or a point below the maximum recorded Friday.

Today's minimum was 55.
